

JAPANESE LOSSES IN SOLOMONS BATTLE ARE BELIEVED LARGER THAN REPORTED

Roosevelt Hails American Successes as the Turning Point in World War No. 2

President Warns There Is Time Only for Working and Fighting, None for Exultation; Stoutly Defends Administration's Policy of Withholding News of Naval Losses

By RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt tonight hailed American successes in Africa and the Far Pacific as an apparent "turning point of this war," but added a warning that there was time only for working and fighting, none for exultation.

Earlier he had described the recent naval battle in the Solomon Islands as a major victory for the Allied cause. Tonight, addressing the Herald-Tribune Forum by radio, he singled out one participant in that battle for a hero's praise—Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan.

Admiral Callaghan, before he was killed in action, sailed his cruiser, the San Francisco, directly into the guns of the Japanese armada and spread devastation among it, the president revealed. The San Francisco, still afloat, has been recommended for decoration for outstanding service, the first ship of the war to be so honored.

Pursuit of Nazis By British Army Is Slowing Down

Weather and Hastily-laid Mines Retarding Westward Advance

By PAUL KERN LEE
CAIRO, Nov. 17 (AP)—The British Eighth Army has captured Derna and El Mechili, narrowing the enemy-held gap of Libya and Tunisia to 900 miles, but pursuit of the disorganized Axis army was slowed today by bad weather and sharp rear-guard actions.

The surviving Germans and Italians in North Africa in effect were hemmed in by three great Allied forces, at least two of which were closing the jaws of a trap.

The Eighth Army was moving west despite short, hot stands of Axis suicide groups which had the choice only of fighting rear-guard actions or surrendering.

The British First Army and American troops were moving east from Algeria into Tunisia. (The Germans said United States troops were bombed at the southern boundary of Tunisia and Algeria, which is only 290 miles from Tripoli and 900 miles from El Mechili.)

Nazi Scattering Mines
Yet a third formidable force was known to be deployed in the Lake Chad region 1,000 miles south of Tripoli across the desert. The force might already be on the move from Fighting French territory.

Marshal Erwin Rommel's exhausted remnants were scattered all along the coastal route from Derna to El Agheila and along an inland shortcut from El Mechili to Misus and El Agheila. They were scattering mines indiscriminately as they fled—employing their last effective means of defense now that German planes have been cleared from the air and the great bulk of the African corp's material has been captured or destroyed.

The weather kept most of the RAF grounded, giving the retreating foe success from the terrible bombing which has beset him along his 400-mile flight from El Alamein in Egypt. United States fighters ranged the forward areas yesterday without encountering a single enemy plane.

The fall of Derna placed the British within 150 miles of Bengasi along the coastal road. El Mechili, on the desert trail flanking the Green mountains along the coast, is only 125 miles east of Bengasi and 220 miles from El Agheila at the eastern base of the Gulf of Sirte.

No Axis stand is expected at Bengasi where demolition fires have been observed, but there is some indication of a fight at El Agheila where salt marshes narrow the passage along the Mediterranean to about thirty mine-studded miles.

Equipment Practically Gone

HITLER REPORTED MASSING ARMY IN BALKANS FOR DRIVE ON SUEZ

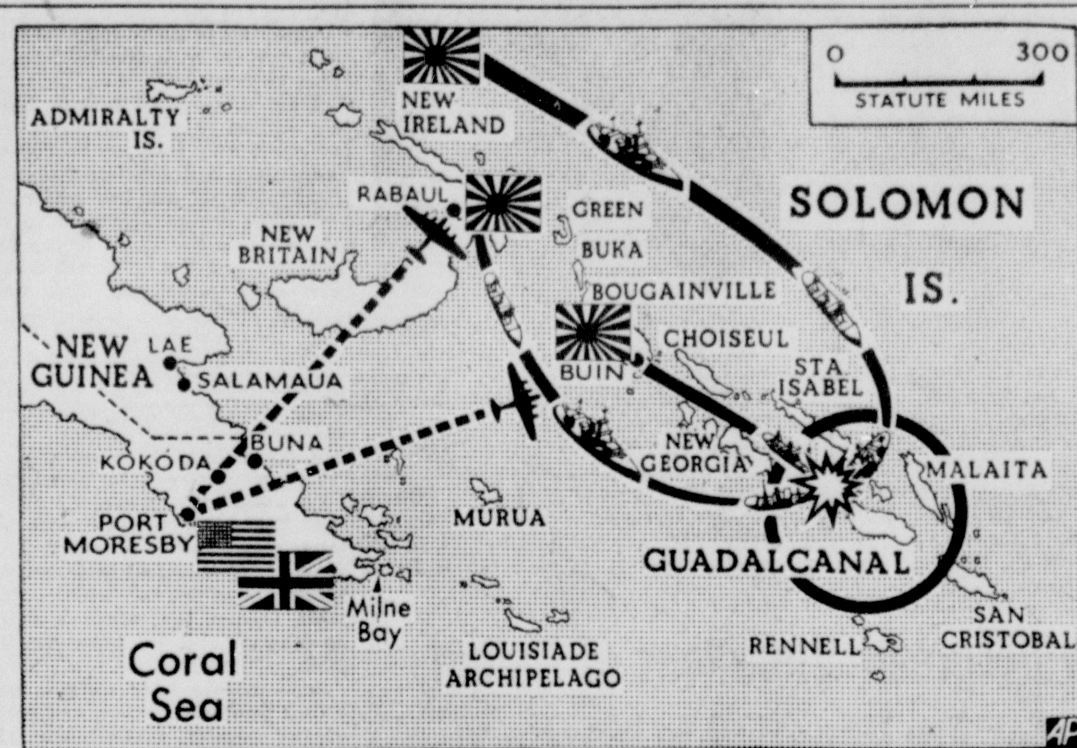

Nazi Divisions Being Withdrawn from Russia, Informants Say

By ROBERT BUNNELLE
London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Growing indications came from the continent tonight of a possible new stroke by Adolf Hitler against the Middle East and Suez from the Balkans in a desperate effort to counter the Allied successes in Northwest Africa and Egypt.

Signs pointing to such a maneuver were seen by competent foreign military and diplomatic sources in advices from Germany and Axis-dominated countries.

These informants, who could not be identified by name, said their best information was that Hitler had withdrawn, or was in the act of withdrawing, forty divisions, including sixteen armored, from the Russian front.

HOW SOLOMONS VICTORY WAS WON

A Japanese armada invading the Guadalcanal area (circled) from three directions—from the north, from the Buin and from Rabaul, (lines of ships)—was smashed by the United States Naval fleet which sunk twenty-three of the Jap ships. Raids by General MacArthur's bombers (planes) on Rabaul and Buin helped the navy to victory.

East's Gasoline Ration To Be Cut 1 Gallon a Week

Reduction Is Approved by Office of Price Administration

[By The Associated Press]
Eastern motorists last night had their gasoline allowance reduced effective Nov. 22 while in Congress a drive developed to postpone nationwide rationing of gasoline scheduled to start on December 1.

The Office of Price Administration announced that beginning Nov. 22 the value of gasoline ration coupons in a book now used in sixteen Eastern states will be reduced from four to three gallons. Rationing is now effective in seventeen Eastern states, but one of those—West Virginia—was exempted from today's order, for the time being.

An official announcement said that other measures to curtail fuel oil consumption in non-war industries and for heating of certain types of buildings are now being drafted and will be announced soon.

Cut Ordered in East.
Leon Henderson, OPA administrator, said the cut had been ordered because of the shortage on the East coast, intensified by military requirements.

On Capitol Hill, Rep. Johnson (D-Okla.) said a score of congressmen had assured him they would support his resolution to set up a three-man board to study the entire petroleum situation. Johnson's resolution, if adopted, automatically would forestall nationwide application of gasoline rationing for three months to give the board a chance to complete a survey.

Ever since the plan for nationwide rationing of gasoline was announced, representatives from the West, Midwest and some from the South have protested it would unnecessarily inconvenience residents in areas where oil supplies are plentiful.

President Roosevelt told his press conference today he had no views to express on the congressional demand for postponement of nationwide gasoline rationing, but said he expected to talk later this week with William M. Jeffers, the government's rubber administrator.

LISBON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Portuguese government has made a diplomatic protest to the United States and British governments against passage of United Nations military planes over Portuguese territory recently, it was disclosed tonight.

Rickenbacker Rides Wing of Rescue Plane Forty Miles

Wants To Complete Mission When He Leaves Hospital in Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Captain Edward W. Rickenbacker, lost in the Southwest Pacific when his plane was forced down October 21 and rescued three weeks later, rode the wing of the rescue plane while it taxied forty miles on the ocean surface to its base, the War department disclosed today.

A department announcement said that although Rickenbacker still needs at least two weeks in a hospital to complete his recovery from the long exposure at sea, he already has expressed his desire to complete the mission to which he was assigned by Secretary of War Stimson—a tour of inspection of aviation facilities in the Southwest Pacific.

Lieutenant W. F. Eadie, United States Navy and Aviation Radioman L. H. Boutte found the raft containing Rickenbacker and two companions, the army said, landing their two-place Kingfisher observation scouting plane with the aid of flares on a sea of medium swells.

Colonel Hans C. Adamson was taken from the raft and squeezed

Allies Continue Advance on Buna As Japs Retreat

Bombers Strike New Blows -- Hits Scored on Large Merchantman

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Wednesday, Nov. 18 (AP)—Ground troops under personal command of General Douglas MacArthur, who is in the field, have moved closer toward the Jap-held port of Buna in Northeast New Guinea while in the air Allied bombers ranged far to strike new blows, including hits on a large merchantman, the high command announced today.

The ground troops, comprising Australians and Americans last were reported within thirty miles by mountain trail and probably closer in cases where they were transported by air. The communiqué stated succinctly the advance "continues" while planes constantly attack the retreating enemy.

A raid by heavy bombers on shipping in the harbor of Rabaul, New Britain island, Northeast of New Guinea, set ablaze the large merchantman last night. At Buin, in the Solomons Northwest of Guadalcanal, medium bombers last night started fires and explosions on the airfield and destroyed three enemy aircraft.

The enemy, aroused by the Allied pincer on Buna, sent its fliers to harass the advancing troops. Allied bombers with a fighter escort surprised the Japs at Lae, above Buna on the New Guinea North coast, destroying seven enemy bombers and seven fighters in low altitude attacks. A Zero which attempted to intercept was shot down.

Other bombers returned to Portuguese Timor and attacked the enemy occupied towns of Macabise and Bobonaro which have been targets of other bombings within recent months.

ROOSEVELT SAYS U. S. DEALINGS WITH DARLAN ONLY 'TEMPORARY'

President's Statement Drafted To Reassure French Critics

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt emphasized today that the United States army's dealings with Admiral Jean Darlan in North Africa were only a "temporary expedient," intended to save both lives and time in carrying the attack to the Axis.

The emergence of Darlan, until recently Vichy's defense chief, as a leader in North Africa in collaboration with American forces, had brought bitter criticism from Fighting French forces, who called him the "No. 2 traitor of France."

In a formal statement read at a press conference, President Roosevelt said no permanent arrangement would be made with Darlan "in view of the history of the past two years."

"People in the United Nations

likewise would never understand the recognition of a reconstituted Vichy government in France or in any French territory," it declared.

"We are opposed to Frenchmen who support Hitler and the Axis. No one in our army has any authority to discuss the future government of France and the French Empire."

"The future French government will be established—not by any individual in metropolitan France or overseas—but by the French people themselves after they have been set free by the victory of the United Nations."

Arrangement "Justified"

The arrangement with Darlan, the president added, was "justified solely by the stress of battle," and brought about Darlan's order to French troops to cease resistance. That in turn made it possible to avoid a "mopping up" operation in Algeria and Morocco, which, Mr.

U. S. Planes Take British Parachute Troops to Tunisia

French Patrols Reported Contacting German Reconnaissance Groups

[By The Associated Press]
LONDON, Nov. 17 — Big American transport planes were scattering British parachute troops deep in Tunisia tonight in advance of a major enveloping movement by the revitalized British First Army of Flanders and United States flying columns.

The word at Allied headquarters was that advanced French patrols were contacting German reconnaissance groups. These latter appeared to be operating out of Bizerte, which Berlin said was definitely in the hands of Axis forces.

From the Atlantic coast, a Sunday dispatch out of Monrovia, Liberia, gave the first hint that the strategic Vichy naval base of Dakar had begun negotiations looking toward capitulation to American-British forces.

The dispatch said a military mission from Dakar was enroute to Allied-occupied North Africa.

Real Battle To Open Soon
From all accounts it appeared that the real battle which may well decide control of the Mediterranean, and the fate of the Axis armies in both Tunisia and Libya, was about to open.

Reports to Allied headquarters said the French patrol which first made contact with German scouting units did not immediately engage the Germans, but merely reported back to the main Allied forces.

According to radio Algiers, however, the German reconnaissance forces were driven back in a patrol skirmish. In any event, it was obvious that the Germans had not passed from the defensive.

The British parachutists must be reaching their objective without opposition. The transport planes which dropped them were escorted by United States fighter aircraft.

A Reuters dispatch said the parachute troops were mostly Londoners. This dispatch said that the force of British parachutists was large, and that they were dropped "close to an important key town in Tunisia and tonight were moving swiftly Eastward to carry out important reconnaissance."

These troops, "flown to their destination in a huge convoy of American transport planes," all are veterans of forty to fifty jumps formed into a unit after Dunkerque, said the Reuters correspondent, Alan Humphreys, assigned to the British First Army.

"Escorted by fighters, the transport planes flew low without meeting any trouble for the whole journey," Humphreys cabled.

"When the drop took place the whole sky seemed filled with parachutists floating rapidly to earth. The crews of the transport planes saw people rushing out of their houses and waving at them and as they sped towards their base. If any German troops were in the neighborhood they must have been taken completely by surprise by this sudden British move."

Official enemy advices during the day lent support to the belief

No Report Has Been Made on Clean Up Operations by American Planes and Surface Units; Details on Night Engagement Nov. 14 and 15 Have Not Been Made Public

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—An upward revision of Japanese Navy losses in the sea battle of Guadalcanal was predicted confidently today by naval authorities who emphasized that the announced total of twenty-three ships sunk and seven damaged was based on incomplete reports from the South Pacific war zone.

Yet to be heard from, it was said, are the clean up operations by American planes and surface units which may have discovered and finished off crippled units of the enemy's fleeing fleet. There was also a night engagement of November 14-15 of which nothing has been reported except that it was fought.

German Troops Push Reds Back At Stalingrad

Nazis and Russians Engage in Street Fighting near Leningrad

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Wednesday, Nov. 18 (AP)—German troops at a cost of 1,000 casualties gained slightly in a Stalingrad factory district yesterday while far to the north in the Leningrad siege area the Nazis and Russians were engaged "in violent street fighting" on the outskirts of a town the Soviets recently recaptured, it was announced early today.

The Russians seized a town on the Volkhov front east of Leningrad several days ago, and the Germans have been attacking heavily ever since in an effort to retake it, the midnight communiqué disclosed.

After repelling six attacks all day yesterday the Germans brought up reinforcements and "succeeded in breaking into the outskirts of a populated place," the communiqué said, "Our units are engaged in violent street fighting."

Reds Gain in Caucasus

When the Russians seized the town they stressed its strategic importance in weakening Nazi attempts to encircle Leningrad which has been under siege for more than two years, but the city never has been identified.

In the Caucasus the Russians said their troops gained on the Nalchik front, driving the Germans out of fortified positions near one village, disabling five Nazi tanks, and wiping out about a company of German infantry.

Northeast of Tuapse where the Germans have been trying to skirt the Caucasus mountains along the Black sea coast the communiqué said 400 more Germans were killed in unsuccessful attempts to crash through Soviet lines.

Artillery Duels Staged

In the Stalingrad sector the Russians said their troops repulsed numerous Nazi attacks, but acknowledged that "in a factory part of the city the Germans pressed back our troops after two days fighting."

SOUTHERN SENATORS FILIBUSTER AGAINST ANTI-POLL TAX MEASURE

McKellar Withdraws Recommendation Barkley Be Named to Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Southern senators filibustered today against the anti-poll tax bill in a bitter Senate session which saw Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) withdraw his recommendation that Majority Leader Barkley be appointed to the Supreme court.

By a series of roll calls and other delaying tactics, including reading and correcting the complete journal of yesterday's proceedings, the Southern filibuster continued. President Philip Murray, of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, sent a letter to members of the Senate declaring that the nation "stands aghast and enraged at the tactics of a small bloc x x x which is seeking to delay the passage of the anti-poll tax bill."

Spain Will Call Up More Troops

Military Services Authorized To Order Partial Mobilization

MADRID, Nov. 17 (AP)—All three Spanish military services were authorized today to order a partial mobilization.

The army, air, and navy ministers, it was explained, are being allowed to call up the necessary number of troops to reinforce units under their respective commands.

The decree authorizing strengthening of military units said:

"Present situation of the world, as a result of the great extension of the war which now reaches heretofore calm areas and daily comes closer to Spain, her colonies and protectorates, makes it prudent to take measures which insure our keeping away from conflict, and which strengthen our defense, our integrity and sovereignty and at the same time preserve peace in our territories."

The decree authorized calling up all non-commissioned or retired officers whose services may be deemed necessary.

(The Berlin radio earlier had announced such a step was impending, interpreting it to mean that Spain was anxious over the British-American invasion of North Africa rather than the fact that German troops now stand all along that country's northern frontier with France.)

Japs Must Strike Again in Pacific, Writer Declares

Dare Not Surrender Initiative or Acknowledge Defeat, He Says

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

The full fruits of the great American naval victory in the Far Pacific are yet to be revealed in Japanese military reaction to the blow, but navy opinion that the foe must strike again at Guadalcanal, if only to save face, seems well justified.

Neither Japan, recoiling from a new defeat at American hands, nor Hitler, menaced by active second-front positions in North Africa, dare surrender the initiative. To do so would be to acknowledge failure of the Axis dream of world conquest.

The Achilles heel of a philosophy of power politics, of rule by force of arms, is that its practitioners cannot stop. Aggression is their only watchword. To revert to a defensive role is to accept auguries of defeat.

Next Move Up to Enemy
Thus the next move is obviously up to Germany and Japan. Even so, there are certain unchallengeable new factors resulting from the staggering rebuff dealt Japanese sea power in the Solomons. They have a bearing on the war in Africa as well as the war in the Pacific.

Waiving the psychological by-product—which could prove vastly important—the factual and practical results achieved are highly encouraging. They lend a color of realism to Allied hopes that the tide has definitely turned against the Axis everywhere, that years may already be lopped off the probable duration of the war.

Of supreme importance even before the full score of the Solomons battle comes in is the cumulative attrition of Japanese sea power. On navy books a ratio of better than four-to-one has been established against Japan in ship losses since and including Pearl Harbor.

Unofficially the figures are set down at 365 Japanese craft of all types, combat and auxiliary, put out of action as against eighty-five American. That, too, despite the dispersion of American fleet units on other war business in the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and elsewhere. Sea power hangs no less on cargo than on combat tonnage. The unfavorable odds at sea for this country in the Pacific produced by two-front war are being whittled down relentlessly.

Victory Is Decisive
That must influence sea odds in other oceans. The Solomons victory was decisive enough to make it virtually certain that no American warcraft need be recalled from other seas to the Pacific. It is the Japanese not the American fleet that must grope desperately for replacements.

The absence of Japanese plane carriers from navy reports of enemy ships sunk or damaged is highly significant and unexplained. It seems obvious that Japanese air power losses must be even greater in proportion and more telling in effect than ship losses to date. Lack of scouting and attack planes may have been the key to the Japanese defeat.

The other aspect of the Solomons sea victory that strongly impresses this observer is the evidence it gives of co-ordinated and effective army-navy staff work. MacArthur's planes from Australia had much to do with the victory Halsey's ships won off Guadalcanal.

Learn in Hard School
American forces in the far Pacific may have learned co-operation in a hard school; but the proof is clear in that shattered Japanese armada that it has been learned.

History probably will trace the sea victory off Guadalcanal more to good scouting and combined staff work than to its individual genius shown by any officer in the fight, daring as Halsey's plan of the battle was. That daring must have been founded on assembled and digested advance information of enemy dispositions to warrant the risk.

TOKYO CLAIMS NORTH CAROLINA AND IDAHO ARE BADLY DAMAGED

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Tokyo radio claimed in a broadcast tonight that the 35,000-ton North Carolina, America's new $70,000,000 super-battleship, and the 33,400-ton Idaho "fired after receiving terrific damage at the hands of the Japanese navy" in the Solomon Islands last Saturday night.

The agency Domei quoted "authoritative quarters" to this effect, and said that the Japanese Imperial Headquarters on Wednesday afternoon Tokyo time would issue a communique showing that "the Japanese naval victory was so overwhelming that United States attempts at a counter-offensive in the South Pacific is a thing of the past."

This broadcast was an obvious prelude to an announcement seeking to offset Washington's communique on Monday disclosing the smashing of the Japanese invasion fleet and the sinking of twenty-three ships including a battleship and five cruisers.

Two Millions Die In War with China

CHUNGKING, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Japanese have lost 2,513,280 men killed and wounded from the outbreak of war with China, July 7, 1937, through last October, the high command announced tonight.

3,000 Persons Who Oppose Mussolini Arrested in Italy

MOSCOW, Nov. 17 (AP)—At least 3,000 persons charged with "being in opposition to Mussolini," have been arrested the past few days in Genoa, Turin, Milan and other Italian cities, the Moscow radio said tonight, quoting a Tass dispatch from Genoa.

Among those arrested, it was stated, were many army officers and industrialists. Several Fascist party leaders, accused of having relations with opposition elements, also have been detained, the report added.

Roosevelt Hails

American aircraft carrier was torpedoed in the Pacific. No enemy vessels or planes were in the vicinity, when she sank some time later. No one knew whether the Japanese were aware that she had gone down. Such information, he said, has a definite bearing on future battle plans.

"We, for instance," he said, "know that we have sunk a number of Japanese aircraft carriers and we know that we have bombed or torpedoed others. We would give a king's ransom to know whether the latter were sunk or were saved, repaired and put back into commission."

Admits One Mistake

At the time the American carrier was sunk, he continued, a clamor was being raised in the press and elsewhere against the suppression of news from the fighting fronts. Responsible authorities, he added, were of a divided opinion.

"Here came my mistake," Mr. Roosevelt continued. "I yielded to the clamor. I did so partly in realization of the certainty that if the news of the sinking were given out two or three weeks later it would be publicly charged that the news had been suppressed by me until after the election."

"Shortly thereafter protests came from the admirals in command in the Southwest Pacific and at our great base in Hawaii on the ground that, in all probability, the Japanese Navy had no information of the sinking and that handing them the information on a silver platter—although we were careful not to reveal the name of this carrier—gave them a military advantage which they would otherwise not have had."

"This confession of mine illustrates to the people of this country the fact that in time of war the conduct of that war, with the aim of total victory comes absolutely first. They know that not one of their inalienable rights is taken away through the failure to disclose to them, for a reasonable length of time, facts which Hitler and Mussolini and Tojo would give their eyes teeth to learn. Facts therefore become paramount—facts that can not be told to the public at that time, as well as facts that can and should be told at all times."

Gigantic Job Ahead

"The posters will tell you, 'loose talk costs lives' do not exaggerate. Loose talk delays victory. Loose talk is the damp in the powder. We prefer to keep our powder dry."

Mr. Roosevelt said that "a gigantic job" lies ahead—with battle lines stretching from Kiska in the Aleutians to Murmansk, from Tunisia to Guadalcanal.

"The lines will grow longer as our forces advance," he said.

Then, noting that "it would seem that a turning point of this war has at last been reached," and adding his warning that there was time only for working and fighting, he swung into a description of Admiral Callaghan's exploit.

"A very powerful Japanese force was moving at night toward our positions in the Solomon Islands. The spearhead of the force that we sent to intercept the enemy was under the command of Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan. He was aboard the leading ship, the Cruiser San Francisco.

"The San Francisco sailed right into the enemy fleet—right through the whole enemy fleet—her guns blazing. She engaged and hit three enemy vessels, sinking one of them. At pointblank range, she engaged an enemy battleship—heavily her superior in size and fire-power. She silenced this battleship's big guns and so disabled her that she could be sunk by torpedoes from our destroyers and aircraft."

Praises Fighting Men

"The San Francisco herself was hit many times. Admiral Callaghan, my close personal friend, and many of his gallant officers and men gave up their lives in this battle. But the San Francisco was brought safely back to port by a lieutenant commander, and she will fight again for our country."

"The commander of the task force of which the San Francisco was a part has recommended that she be the first of our navy's vessels to be decorated for outstanding service."

But, he continued, "there are no citations, no medals, which carry with them such high honor as that accorded to fighting men by the respect of the comrades-in-arms." He added:

"The commanding general of the marines on Guadalcanal, General Vandegrift, yesterday sent a message to the commander of the fleet, Admiral Halsey, saying:

"We lift our battered helmets in admiration for those who fought magnificently against overwhelming odds and drove the enemy back to crushing defeat."

"Let us thank God for such men as these. May our nation continue to be worthy of them, throughout this war, and forever."

Man Is Accused Of Defrauding 50 In Western Md.

"Heirs" to Fortune Were Induced To Give Funds for "Case"

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—A federal grand jury accused Edward H. Nirdlinger today of defrauding approximately fifty persons in Western Maryland by inducing them to believe they were heirs to the fortune left by Ella Wendel, elderly New York multi-millionaire.

Nirdlinger's last address was given as Hagerstown, Md., but prosecutors said he was still at large and that his whereabouts were unknown.

Miss Wendel lived a secluded life in her mansion at Thirty-ninth street and Fifth avenue, New York city, prior to her death in 1931. Afterward, numerous claims were made by persons who said they were heirs and litigation over the estate resulted in widespread publicity.

Nirdlinger was charged with collecting money from the supposed heirs to conduct an investigation for them and to employ counsel, and with converting the money to his own use.

The indictment recited one letter in which Nirdlinger was accused of writing to Jacob Pryor of Smithsburg, Washington county, requesting Pryor to send five dollars a week to continue the "case."

A similar letter requesting funds, "whatever money you can spare," was addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Ran Smith of Lantz, Md.

The grand jury also indicted the Baltimore Railroad Company, Inc., Secretary-treasurer Philip F. Kolodner and David S. Cross, a supervisory employee, on twenty-three counts of violating the fair labor standards act.

The concern was charged with failing to pay the minimum hourly wage, failure to pay proper overtime, and with falsification of records.

Sounding of Siren Alarms Lonaconing; Mayor To Investigate

LONA CONING, Nov. 17 (AP)—A thorough investigation into the sounding of the silk mill siren at 11:45 o'clock tonight was promised by Mayor John H. Evans after the unannounced alarm had created excitement and hysteria among local citizens.

Evans said he was told that members of the local Minute Men Company were responsible and added that members of the reserve militia are the only ones authorized to blow the siren in case of an emergency.

The mayor stated that the Minute Men met earlier in the evening in a room above a beer parlor and many loitered about the town long after the session was concluded.

"This is a serious situation," Evans declared, "and evidently is a foolish gesture on the part of a practical joker."

"If the person or persons who were responsible for sounding the alarm feel that they are not getting enough action on the home front my advice is for them to visit the recruiting office in Cumberland and enlist in the army."

Marshall Rommel Is in Tunisia, Reliable Sources Say

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Reuters reported from advanced headquarters in North Africa tonight that German Field Marshal Rommel is now in Tunisia.

The British agency quoted well-informed sources as saying that the Nazi marshal whose armies are being thrown back by the British Eighth Army in Eastern Libya is "making a desperate effort to organize Axis forces" to resist the British First Army and its United States Allies advancing from the West.

This latter force attacking from Algeria is the most immediate concern of the Germans caught in Tunisia, Tripoli and in nearby Western Libya.

Rommel's whereabouts has been somewhat of a mystery. He had been reported both in Italy and in Munich, but this dispatch appeared to be the most definite yet since the Allied landings in North Africa, coming as it did through censored channels from Allied headquarters in Africa.

Thompson Whips Dorazio

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17 (AP)—Giant "Turkey" Thompson of Los Angeles, hailed as a comer in heavy-weight boxing circles, made his Eastern debut a successful one tonight, winning a ten-round decision over the veteran Gus Dorazio of Philadelphia, before 7,000 fans at the arena.

East's Gasoline

Investigation was reported checking rumors current in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and other Midwestern cities that gasoline rationing would be postponed, perhaps indefinitely.

The Cleveland regional office of the Office of War Information said the investigation was disclosed by "highest officials" of the OPA, who flatly denied there would be a further delay in starting the rationing program.

SIX WHO CAME BACK

These six men, five Marines and one Navy pharmacist's mate, were part of an outpost of forty-six men who were cut off from the main body of United States troops by the Japanese in their first big attempt to recapture Henderson Field on Guadalcanal Island but fought their way out after spending five nights in the Jap-infested jungles. Widespread Violations of Ration Rules Are Reported in Maryland

Cumberlanders Are Included in Cases To Be Taken to Criminal Court

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—Acceptance of "A" gasoline rationing coupons months before they become valid was charged to filling station operators by state OPA officials today.

The officials, state OPA attorney Reuben Oppenheimer and Enforcement Attorney Cornelius P. Mundy, said new and widespread rationing violations had been uncovered in an investigation in Maryland, climaxed by an intensive weekend drive in Baltimore city and vicinity.

In most cases, they said, administrative proceedings would be brought against the gasoline dealers concerned but certain flagrant violations, including instances uncovered in Cumberland, Frederick and Hagerstown, would result in criminal court action.

Accept "3-A" Coupons

OPA regulations made it permissible, they said, for operators to accept only "A-2" coupons until the "A-3" tickets became valid Nov. 22. Yet, Mundy continued, several operators already had accepted "A-3" coupons for gasoline, some had taken "A-4" slips which must not be used until Jan. 22, and in one instance a filling station dealer had accepted an "A-6" coupon, invalid until near the end of the rationing year which began last July.

Of the cases in which more than a score of invalid coupons were found, Mundy said "when so many coupons are found in the possession of a dealer, he obviously is violating regulations."

Some dealers were accused by Mundy of having too few coupons on hand "indicating that gasoline is being sold without demanding coupons" and others were charged with having more coupons than necessary, "indicating the dealer is trafficking in gasoline coupons."

Consumers Also Guilty

Oppenheimer said he wanted to make it plain that the consumers were just as guilty as the dealer when rationing rules were broken. Consumers would be cited and given administrative hearings, he said. Gasoline dealers would be given a chance to defend themselves, either in court or at a public hearing, he said, but if the charges were sustained, they ran the risk of being denied the right to sell gasoline and could be refused the privilege of being a registration station.

An OPA investigator, Mundy said, saw a consumer, with an "A" sticker on the car, give a "C" coupon for gasoline. The consumer tried to make the coupon illegible by grinding it under his heel when the investigator approached, he said. The coupon was saved by the OPA man, Mundy added, and was now being held at the OPA office.

"S" Coupons Missed

Mundy said nine violators were discovered yesterday but the OPA refused to disclose the total number of stations investigated.

The new reports of violations followed shortly after the OPA had announced misuse of "S" coupons in which trucks were giving up their extra "S" coupons and dealers were using them to sell gasoline to automobiles without taking coupons from the motorists.

"Some operators," Oppenheimer said, "apparently don't realize the connection between violations in North Africa and the Solomons" and rationing sacrifices at home. Luckily the majority of our citizens are co-operating and we find the majority of operators are complying fully with the law."

More Housewives To Be in War Jobs

65 of 180 War Production Areas Face Labor Shortages, McNutt Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—One out of every four housewives living near war factories will be in war jobs before the end of 1943, Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt predicted today.

McNutt declared that the pressing need for war workers would require both men and women now in jobs not essential to the war effort to take jobs in war factories.

"If they have never done factory work before, they have got to take training for war factory jobs," he said in an interview with Harry Burt of the United States Chamber of Commerce. The interview was transcribed for broadcast throughout the nation next week.

The war manpower chief asserted that sixty-five out of 180 war production areas are facing "real trouble" with labor shortages and that throughout the country generally, there are shortages of special types of skilled workers.

Migration of idle workers to war centers he said, would not solve the labor shortage "because of living conditions existing in our already overcrowded war production centers."

Each community, McNutt added, "must mobilize its own labor resources without calling in outside help."

that the combined Allied forces are operating in both Northern and Southern columns in an effort to trap the Germans and Italians in Tunisia and close to the road to Tripoli.

Still under the same code of strict secrecy which covered the start of the North African operations, Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters disclosed nothing of the Allied advance movement or of the strength of forces still pouring into Allied-held North African ports.

Allied Maneuver Expected
But an Allied enveloping maneuver, hinted almost a week ago by the reported movement of United States forces Southeastward from Algiers, was indicated strongly by a Berlin high command communique which said:

"Marching enemy columns on the coastal road east of Bone (in the Algerian-Tunisian frontier country) and in the Southern Borden district of Tunisia suffered heavy losses from our air attacks."

Circumspect Allied communiques and official statements have betrayed little or nothing of the strategy of General Kenneth A. N. Anderson, British commander of the combined forces striking Eastward into Tunisia.

They have, however, indicated a careful regard for the problem of supply involved in penetration of these arid lands, and on Monday it was disclosed that additional American mobile troops had reinforced the Eastward push.

The German reference to the "Southern border district of Tunisia" probably was relative. Last mid-week, an American force from

OPA Regulations Being Violated By Some Dealers

Officials Charge Used Automobile Black Tire Market in Maryland

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—State Office of Price Administration enforcement attorneys declared today that there's a used automobile tire black market in Maryland, with violation of OPA regulations most flagrant in Baltimore.

They said tire dealers were buying up extra tires from motorists on the pretext that they would be turned over to the Defense Supplies Corporation. OPA law requires that all extra tires over five be sold to the DSC by Nov. 22.

The OPA officials also declared that private motorists were selling tires to friends. Both these practices are illegal and subject to severe penalties, they declared, and reported that many complaints had been made against both motorists and tire dealers.

Dealers are not required to sell any of their tire stocks to the government, and the OPA said dealers, who were purchasing tires from private drivers were attempting to build up their inventories.

All used tire supplies were frozen on Oct. 1, and any sales are illegal, except to the defense supplies corporation.

Appropriate action would be taken where violations were found, the OPA declared.

At the same time, the price administration office disclosed that nearly 8,000 tires had been received in Baltimore by the Railway Express Agency, Inc., which is acting as collector and warehouse for the DSC.

Some checks have already been turned over to motorists, and crews of tire experts are checking the condition of other tires turned in to determine what remuneration should be made.

Algiers was reported moving inland toward Bou Saada.

From there the possible route for this force could have led Southeast to Biskra, a matter of 115 road miles, thence further East to Gafsa, in the depths of Tunisia, 225 miles farther by trail.

The Vichy French News Agency said the British-American force was operating from Tebessa, at the Southern terminus of a rail line running 115 miles into the desert South of the Eastern Algerian Port of Bone.

This account, said Gafsa, 100 miles Southeast of Tebessa, was one of the first objectives of the Allies in a thrust aimed at Gafsa, 100 miles farther East and 100 miles from the Tripolitanian border.

At Gafsa the desert task force also would be in a position to strike by road or rail to the Mediterranean coast of Sfax, approximately 150 miles to the Northeast.

Germans Are Reinforced

This would cut the Italian high road to Tripoli at a time when strong Allied combined forces, moving on Biverte and Tunis along the coastal route from Bone, are beginning to engage the hastily assembled Axis enemy.

Up to this evening the status of the fighting in the protectorate remained obscure, both Allied and Axis sources having termed reports of battles about Bizerte as "preliminary." There were, however, continued indications of local holding actions which certain French units are conducting against the Germans and Italians.

These enemy troops, reportedly under the command of one Lieut. Gen. Nehring, were believed in some quarters to have been reinforced by one of the newly organized German Army. They are said to have twelve-ton tanks which were flown in from the continent.

One of these divisions numbers about 7,500 troops. Previous estimates placed the Axis strength in Tunisia at 10,000.

Nehring was reported appealing to the French garrisons all over Tunisia to help repulse the British and Americans. He is said to have been sent to Libya only recently from the Russian front, to serve under Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Rommel himself, by the tactics of desperately fought rear-guard action and mine-laying, was reported reliably tonight to have avoided, so far, the coup de grace which the holy pursuing British Eighth Army had hoped to deliver somewhere East of Tripolitania.

The descent of bad weather in the Libyan desert also was aiding him in his race to outdistance his British pursuers.

One factor which Rommel and Nehring alike must consider is the possibility of a long-range foray by Free French troops moving Northward from the Lake Chad country. Lake Chad is, however, 400 miles from the Tunisia-Tripolitania border.

Axis communiques during the day said little to dispute the flat Allied announcement that the British fleet holds full control of the Western Mediterranean and its approaches.

Minor submarine action was claimed, the Germans saying a U-boat had sunk a 12,000-ton transport out of a British-American supply convoy off North Africa, and the Italians saying one of their submarines had stolen into the roadstead of Bone and damaged a merchantman "with gunfire."

There was no confirmation of these claims, or of an Italian announcement that Fascist torpedo aircraft had sunk two merchant vessels in a convoy off Algeria. The Italians acknowledged the loss of six planes.

Roosevelt Says

Roosevelt said, might have taken as much as one to two months. "Such a period would have delayed the concentration for the attack from the West on Tunis, and we hope on Tripoli," he continued. "Every day of delay in the current operation would have enabled the Germans and Italians to build up a strong resistance, to dig in and make a huge operation on our part essential before we could win."

The president also announced that he had requested the "liberation of all persons in Northern Africa who had been imprisoned because they opposed the efforts of the Nazis to dominate the world." He also said he had asked the abrogation of all laws and decrees inspired by Nazi doctrine. In an aside, he made it clear that this included anti-Jewish laws and decrees.

A Washington spokesman for the Fighting French, who asked that his name not be used, expressed "great satisfaction" with the president's statement.

Denounced by Hull

"The president's statement shows," he said, "his understanding in particular of our reaction against Darlan and against the reconstitution of a Vichy regime in North Africa."

As a high official of the German-dominated government of unoccupied France at Vichy, Darlan was repeatedly condemned as a collaborator. On one occasion, after Darlan had visited Hitler at Berchtesgaden, Secretary Hull forthrightly denounced him and linked his name with that of Pierre Laval, top man at Vichy, who was outrightly working for an Axis victory.

When American and British troops moved into North Africa, Darlan was at Algiers. He was taken captive. After negotiations conducted by American military leaders, Darlan ordered all French resistance stopped.

Fighting French and other quarters showed anxiety lest a "Vichy regime" be set up in North Africa. Mr. Roosevelt's statement of today was obviously drafted to reassure these critics. And after reading it, he remarked that it cut the ground from under those who had criticized without thinking the situation through.

Bartek and Sgt. James Jones Reynolds, the latter one of three members of Rickenbacker's crew who were rescued from an island, "are still ill and weak from exhaustion" but are responding well to treatment and showing satisfactory improvement, the army reported.

Aside from 1,000 casualties suffered Tuesday, the Russians said the Germans lost sixty trucks, five guns, fifteen mortars, twenty-eight machine guns and ten black tanks.

Northwest of the Volga river city the Russians told only of artillery duels, but said one Russian unit caught and killed seventy-five Germans erecting barbed-wire entanglements.

Sequence of Motor Activity in Infants Follows Gradual Patern of Improvement

Pals for Tiny Tot

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
The human animal experiences so many and such profound changes in the early years of life that were a physician acquainted only with the adult body he would hardly know how to examine a newborn baby. He would be justified in thinking it was a new species of animal.

The proportions of the newborn baby are all different. The head is much larger in proportion to the body and the upper part of the head is away out of proportion to the lower. Watching the eyes, if you get a chance to find them open, you will notice that they move independently of one another and make no attempt to focus on objects as an adult's do.

The abdomen is much larger than the chest, due to the size of the liver. The abdomen is the furnace which prepares all the materials for growth and since that baby has to increase two or three times its size in a year or two, the furnace must be adequate.

Activities Limited
The activities of this little bundle of humanity are naturally strictly limited. It tends to respond with mass movements when stimulated. That is, the whole body moves rather than a part, as is the case with an adult. He will draw up his legs, beat his arms about, shake his head and roll over in one movement.

It is doubtful how much the baby sees, hears, smells or tastes. Its sensory world is certainly very different from ours.

Everything the baby does is a gradual pattern of improvement. The sequence of motor activity is as follows:

One month—Lies on abdomen and lifts chin.

Two months—Lies on abdomen and lifts chin and chest.

Three months—Lies on back, reaches for object, such as a ball, usually misses it.

Four months—Sits with support.

Five months—Sits in mother's lap, grasps object.

Six months—Sits on chair, grasps dangling object.

Seven months—Sits alone.

Eight months—Stands with help.

Nine months—Stands holding furniture.

Starts To Creep

Ten months—Creeps.

Eleven months—Walks with support when led.

Twelve months—Is able to pull itself to standing position by grasping furniture.

Thirteen months—Climbs stairs.

Fourteen months—Stands alone.

Fifteen months—Walks alone without help.

Here is the observation on activities of an eighteen-months-old baby:

He carries things to the porch—a spade, a wheelbarrow and a cart. He stooped over to pick up the spade, but arranged his feet several times before he could keep his balance when he leaned over. He backed down two steps of the porch, on his hands and knees, and walked up and down a narrow path on the lawn. When he fell down, he picked himself up by keeping his hands on the ground until he was sure his feet were steady.

Remedies Are Needed For Blackout Defects

THE TEST BLACKOUT Monday night has been termed "the worst demonstration blackout held here," by numerous civilian defense volunteers, observers and citizens.

There seems to have been an unfortunate let-down in the whole structure of the civilian defense program. People either are not taking the situation seriously or are becoming disinterested.

An example of one of the discouraging things that happened, which tend to break down the morale of those who have studied and trained for any emergency, is the situation at one of the local casualty stations.

This particular station is the zone headquarters for air raid wardens, motor corps, a number of doctors and nurses, and other civilian defense personnel. It is equipped with telephone and other necessary paraphernalia for smooth and efficient operation. The station is situated in a church on North Centre street.

The various units reported Monday night, but the church was locked and none of the volunteers had a key. It remained locked all during the blackout and the headquarters was established on the sidewalk, without communication service, and in violation of all blackout rules. But workers had no other choice. No one with a key could be located.

Now all of these score or more persons who reported for duty are disgruntled and most people believe they should be. It's like the old story, "for want of a nail the battle was lost."

This station is an emergency hospital among other things, and the volunteers believe that some of the civilian defense workers assigned to this zone might be entrusted with a key to be used in the event of an emergency.

Throughout the whole city there were numerous violations. Many persons had left home with lights burning. Some stores failed to extinguish signs. Even in the post office, lights blazed forth on every floor.

At the state armory another problem, not a new one however, became even more pronounced.

Under recent orders, all members of the Maryland State Guard are instructed by Commanding General D. H. Mohr and their respective battalion commanders to report at their nearest armory on all blackouts. On daylight alerts, they are to remain ready for call.

But, on the occasion of blackouts, numerous guardsmen say, air raid wardens and auxiliary police have detained them and prevented them from reporting at the armory. That, of course, puts the guards at cross purposes with defense authorities and themselves.

This situation is to be remedied hereafter, as plans have been made to provide escorts for the guardsmen to the armory if that is necessary, although it should not be inasmuch as the guardsmen carry proper passes and identification cards.

It is obvious, however, that remedies must be applied to prevent repetition of this obstruction and the various other violations reported. One of the most glaring defects to be remedied is the lack of an adequate warning siren or like device for various sections of the city not now reached by the ones provided.

Help Where Help Has Been Needed

REPRESENTATIVE JOSEPH W. MARTIN, JR., Republican House leader, will have valiant assistance in the Senate from the undaunted Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, who, as everybody knows, has been crusading against nonessentials, in the movement to cut down the swollen federal bureaucracy as an important factor in solving the bungled man-power situation and in winning the war.

Senator Byrd declares that he knows "of no more imperative duty that Congress now has to perform than to take such action as may be necessary to eliminate those agencies of government that are not contributing to the war effort and to institute methods of efficiency and economy in all agencies of government and eliminate the waste and inefficiency that now exist."

As the senator rightly declares, "in time of peace, the waste of public funds is to be condemned severely, but in time of war the waste of man-power by governmental in nonessential activities, as well as the waste of public funds, is inexcusable and criminal."

Citing official figures to show that there are more civilian public employees of government than there are soldiers, sailors and marines in our armed forces, Senator Byrd reports that the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, of which he is chairman, and which has already done so much good, has an investigation under way now and will shortly start hearings "to tell the people the whole truth with respect to duplicated activities, the overmanning of practically every agency of the government and the useless employees that are carried on the payrolls of these agencies, and will offer constructive suggestions to remedy these conditions."

That is good, indeed. The senator will now have reinforcements in his battle he has so long fought in the newly elected Republican senators, whose addition has come in good stead at this time. He certainly has earned this needed help.

Puerto Rico Needs Attention

ANOTHER of the pop-eyed New Deal schemes seems to have gone floozy under the direction of one of its foremost disciples. It was applied to one of our territorial wards, Puerto Rico, by its New Deal governor, Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, whose tenure, it is understood, is happily approaching its termination.

Puerto Rico has faced exceptional handicaps, it must be admitted. It is overpopulated for its resources, cannot grow enough food for its people and is largely dependent upon the sugar crop, which is notoriously unstable.

All this, of course, was well known when Tugwell took over. He had grandiose New Dealish plans for meeting the situation there; but it has developed that, while he may be a good dreamer, he has shown himself to be a miserably poor administrator.

Upon the normal handicaps faced by the island has come an acute crisis resulting from the scarcity of shipping, which has magnified its chronic economic ills many times. Of course, it is not Governor Tugwell's fault that there is a scarcity of shipping; that in place of the 56,000 tons of shipping a month set as its minimum requirement for subsistence it now has only 30,000 tons available. But, reports from the scene show that Dr. Tugwell, although well aware of this condition, failed to build up food reserves, failed to control the use of shipping space, failed to organize food supplies efficiently and in time, and failed to meet the gasoline shortage. It appears that he went on planning for a distant future while the unhappy Puerto Ricans hovered near starvation in the immediate present.

It is the plain duty of the United States government to alleviate this distressing situation. The first step is obviously the removal of Dr. Tugwell as governor and the appointment of a first-rate administrator in his stead.

Chemistry Offers Victory Incentive

WINDOW SCREENS that will not rust or corrode or need painting. Curtains that can be laundered without benefit of bothersome stretcher frames. Upholstery fabrics that combine the beauty of rich tapestries with the durability of canvas or leather.

These are some of the products of chemistry which are in store for the homes of tomorrow, the houses of peace that today's war-stricken world is hoping and longing for, after victory.

Today the textile chemist and manufacturer are devoting most of their thought and energy to meeting the tremendous demand for uniforms, parachutes, special protective clothing and other military and industrial fabrics. But the war program's stimulation of the textile industry has resulted in the creation or speeding up of numerous inventions and developments which will be available when victory is achieved.

The outlook here is so promising that everybody, particularly the housewife, can find further stimulus in doing everything possible to speed the day of victory.

Ink colors are to be limited to black, blue, green and red. As far as we're concerned, they could eliminate the red, too.

Amateur Philosophizing

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I heard one man say of another: "That fellow doesn't know what it's all about!"

Well, who does? . . . Do you? Does that scornful critic himself know?

Do any of us know just what it is all about? When we are well and strong and happy we think we know or we do not think very much about it—but when we are down in the mouth and humiliated or remorseful then we wonder and wonder and wonder.

One fact is certain. One command is sure. Though all the evidence may not be in and we little creatures cannot know just what it is all about—most of the time we must act as though we did.

When we are very young we dream of the gallant accomplishments of very young men, Alexander the Great conquered the world when he was hardly more than a youth. John Keats wrote immortal poetry before he died at 26. William Pitt was prime minister of England at 24. Newton solved the laws of the universe at 21. . . . But as we grow older our heroes age. We remember Gladstone still vigorous in his eighties. We remember a great Roman statesman who learned Greek at 80. We decided there is still a LITTLE time for us to achieve.

A doctor said: "It's quite all right to have an annual health examination — if you can stand it. But not all human beings can endure the truth. If the examination shows that they are in bad health, some patients go to pieces. If the examination shows an excellent state of health, other men at once proceed to do too much."

Some men are called Stuffed Shirts. . . . What are Stuffed Shirts filled with? Arrogance, pomposity, pride, ignorance and meaningless noise. That's the stuffing of Stuffed Shirts.

When I was a boy my dearest ambition was to be able to jump from a moving freight car as the brakeman did—facing backwards. . . . I still think it a considerable accomplishment. . . . Before you smile in pity, please try to remember what unachieved childish ambition of yours haunts you still.

Party Labels Are Different Now, Stewart Says

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Once on a time, when a man said he was a Republican, you got a pretty fair idea of his political philosophy. Ditto, if he was a Democrat. You knew the grounds on which members of the two groups agreed with one another, respectively. You also recognized the points of party differences of opinion between them. For instance, a Democrat was pro-states' rights. A Republican was much more strongly federal. A Republican was a protectionist. A Democrat was for free trade or a tariff for revenue only.

There still are opposing schools of thought, but they no longer classify as Republican and Democratic.

Some Examples

Illustratively, there are anti-prohibitionists and a few surviving prohibitionists. Among the latter is Josh Lee, who was defeated for reelection to the Senate from Oklahoma the other day, after trying to get a dry clause into our "teenage draft legislation. He's a Democrat. In Kansas, Senator Arthur Capper, who supported the dry proposition, was re-elected. He's a Republican. There likewise were wet Republicans as well as wet Democrats.

Similarly, the old-fashioned parties are all jumbled together and Democratic lines today are almost purely a matter of habit. Voting is, too, although bolters are far more numerous at the polls than they used to be.

No Trend from Democracy

President Roosevelt was quite right, then, in saying, as he did in a recent interview, that the latest election result indicated no particular Republican trend away from democracy. And there's no doubt that a bi-partisan alliance should be easy to fix up—provided it's considered as an old-line Republican-Democratic alliance.

Politicians still stew over those worn-out designations, but the average elector doesn't—not one-cent's worth.

As to the war, there's no room for controversy.

If Uncle Sam had militarily scored super-credibly before elections, there's no question that the administration would have had mightily close to a 100 per cent walkover on Nov. 3. The African campaign came just a week too late for many Democratic candidates!

Mismanagement Believed

The skimpiness of its retention of congressional control wasn't due to its Democratic-versus-its-Republican politics, but to the notion that the military campaign has been mismanaged. A lot of the voters obviously haven't liked its New Deal economics, but they wouldn't have holed about 'em at the present juncture if they'd felt that the White House was dealing with the war situation competently—as now seems pretty evident.

F. D. R. wanted Republican support, certainly—and he's had it. But, as previously remarked, the political party distinction doesn't mean anything at present.

The distinction was that he was accused of having made a botch of our war program. It was a Democratic as well as a Republican judgment. F. D. R. says he's consulted Republicans as well as Democrats. Nobody disputes it. He, personally, is the guy—not his party, who's held at fault for the prospect's gumminess.

New Deal Suffers

In the background is the New Deal economically.

The war appears to have queered it.

It didn't have anything to do with wartime.

It was to have been an economic revolution.

Maybe F. D. R. would have been

HOW TO SALVAGE TIN CANS, USING A TEN-CENT CAN OPENER

Independence Goal Already Pointed Out By Roosevelt on India, Paul Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. — The liberals are always complaining because Mr. Roosevelt never says anything about Britain's granting India her freedom.

If they will read again the president's radio address on the Philippines, they may find he has spoken on India, definitely and forcefully — without identifying her specifically.

Delicacy of diplomacy may prevent FDR from telling Britain straight out what to do with her empire problems, but the independence formula which he set for Quezon is not copyrighted. Furthermore, he said it was a "United Nations pattern, philosophy and ideal," for all small nations.

Briefly, it provides, first, the acceptance by both the larger and smaller nations of a sincere desire to work toward independence. It provides mutual economic and political planning, step by step, toward complete independence over a period of years.

No doubt it is the formula which Mr. Roosevelt will insist upon at the peace conference for India, and all undeveloped nations desiring independence.

Tests conducted at the Maryland experiment station show corn silage to be valuable in fattening steers and wintering pregnant ewes.

The experience of hundreds of Maryland farmers using good mechanical erosion control practices such as strip cropping and contour farming, in conjunction with good farming practices, show that increased yields may reasonably be expected during the first year, according to John Cotton, specialist in soil conservation for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Moisture conservation is primarily responsible for this immediate increase, he states, which averages approximately ten percent in the State.

Whether or not this is desirable, it cannot be accomplished. It is impossible.

The true facts are easy to see, although they naturally are not being announced officially. The Pacific war is a naval war primarily. To defeat Japan, we must have sea mastery in the Western Pacific.

Anywhere we are to go, we must have superior naval strength. But we cannot attain this as long as the British fleet is required in the Atlantic and Mediterranean.

We cannot even put forward our best naval effort there while a threat to our shipping and shores keeps part of our fleet in the Atlantic.

Losses of our aircraft carriers (the fleet's offensive spearhead) reported around the Solomons the past month make our unsatisfactory Pacific naval situation even more plain.

Mr. Roosevelt's basic strategy, night's grounds and pretends he cannot tell the difference.

To our satisfaction the coffee industry has jumped all over him. There is no substitute, its spokesmen say, for fresh coffee, a pronouncement which reflects our own sentiments precisely. What you get with fancy concoctions may be a drink of some stimulative powers. It may even be palatable and pleasant to smell. From bitter experience, we are convinced that the brew, no matter how it is brewed, is not coffee. It is something else entirely.

We do not mind exactly. We can put up as well as the next man with ingenious substitutes. All we ask is that Mayor La Guardia refrain from telling us that they are the real thing. We don't see much point in trying to kid anyone.

Social Reforms Handicap War, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—When a member of the House Naval Affairs committee who happens to be a marine colonel comes back from the Pacific and says we are "losing the war" out there, the other members of Congress feel inclined to attach considerable weight to his report. That's why impetus has been given to movement led by Minority Leader Martin for a congressional committee of both parties to have a voice in the conduct of the war.

But it would be a mistake if hasty action were taken in Congress either condemning or urging the proposal, because it raised some very important questions of policy that ought to be frankly explored so that even a well-intentioned suggestion does not in the end actually result in a disservice to the management of the war.

If all that were involved were merely the set of firsthand observations brought back by Representative Maas, of Minnesota, these could easily be verified or disproved or put into proper perspective. But there is back of this movement something deeper and more significant, and perhaps the best way to correct it is to apply the treatment of health exposure to the free air of analysis.

Many Are Distrustful

To put it simply, there are many members of Congress who are so bitter against and distrustful of the administration's method of handling public authority that they openly talk of Mr. Roosevelt's alleged ambitions for a fourth term in 1944.

But who suffers from that sort of attack? Not Mr. Roosevelt—who goes on with the New Deal and his New Deal henchmen regardless of how the majority of the voters protested at the polls a couple weeks ago—but the military and naval men to whom politics is an anathema and upon whom the responsibility for winning the war has really been placed.

It is most unfortunate that Mr. Roosevelt is just as vehement against his critics and distrustful of his opponents as they are concerning him. He, however, has had opportunity after opportunity to rise above such politics and break the vicious circle of accusation and counter-accusation, as befits a man who has been given three terms and presumably can forego further ambition.

Socialism Is Pressed

But Mr. Roosevelt, even during this fateful emergency, has been reluctant to concede that the New Deal scheme of socialization must be sacrificed to win the war. To interrogations about a lengthier work-week, for example, the president still replied with the statement either that we do not have a forty-hour week in America or that we are already working a forty-eight hour week, as if the economic problem involved in the straitjacket of the Wage and Hour law and the issue of overtime and increased manpower were as simple as that comment implies.

The American people must evidently continue to bear the burden of a class war inside this country at the same time that their sons are fighting a global war. All this puts politics to the fore and makes the army and navy command the target of criticism that is really aimed at Mr. Roosevelt.

Nothing could be further from the truth than the assertion that Adm. King, for instance, would allow political considerations or the behind-the-scenes jealousies of Gen. MacArthur in Army circles to influence the strategy used.

King Independent

Adm. King is an independent, high-minded naval officer who is fighting a two-ocean war with a one-ocean navy, and he had nothing to do with the evolution of the Allied diplomacy that failed to keep Japan out of a Pacific ocean war till Hitler could be defeated. Adm. King must fight with the weapons and ships allotted to him, and it does no good at this late date to bemoan our earlier misfortunes in the Pacific, for we are correcting their ill effects.

Adm. King hasn't confided his strategy to Representative Maas or anyone else outside of his official circle, and it may well be inferred that the Minnesota marine-congressman knows only a portion of the story of all the global problems involved. There isn't any political sub-service or sycophancy in Adm. King's makeup, and members of congress would do well to let the army and navy high command alone and concentrate their attention on the economic blunders being made on the home front, rather than to demand a voice in the making of the strategic policies of the war abroad.

Up to Roosevelt

The justice of his position and his own persistence will enable him eventually to get rid of some of the most war-worthless employees, but not until Mr. Roosevelt gets interested in war waste, and imposes pressure from the top, will there ever be a chance of any general constructive success in the effort.

The executive branch knows best where the duplication lies and where the thumb twiddler twiddles. Only a genuine drive to clean its own house, or to aid Byrd and Congress in cleaning it, will cut these vast government expenditures to the point where the taxpayer can have confidence that he is getting his wars-worth for his money.

FORTY WOMEN ARE ACCEPTED FOR SERVICE IN THE WAACS

Forty applicants from Cumberland and vicinity have been accepted for service in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, Lieut. Maxine Henius, WAAC recruiter, announced yesterday.

Half of the group probably will be called to Baltimore next week, Lieut. Henius said, and the other twenty at a later date.

Lieut. Henius yesterday concluded a two-day recruiting campaign in Allegany county but will return here once a month in an effort to secure more members for the WAACS.

Women who obtained applications can send them to Lieut. Henius, Room 105, Equitable building, Baltimore, or can write there for applications.

Soil Conservation Service and FSA Help Farmer Increase Output

The Farm Security Administration has been co-operating with the Allegany Soil Conservation Service to show Allegany county farmers in the FSA program how they can increase production for war use by following soil conservation practices, Kenneth R. Wagonman, county supervisor for the FSA, said yesterday.

More than 100 families in the farm security program in this county have been taught since 1935, Wagonman said, how both water and soil can be conserved by plowing fields on the contour rather than the old "up and down hill" method. "Many small farmers are finding that planting on the contour gives them greater yields," Wagonman explained. "When the ground is planted the way nature laid it out," he continued, "it holds its moisture longer and retains its fertility, and the soil stays in place instead of washing away."

The FSA and the soil conservation service have offices in the post office building, Cumberland.

Sorority Will Hold Its Annual Dinner Tonight

Eta Upsilon Gamma Alumni Installs Officers at Meeting Here

The Alumni Chapter of Eta Upsilon Gamma sorority will hold its annual informal Thanksgiving dinner at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the All Ghan Shrine Country Club, with Mrs. Frances Maxwell as toastmaster. A few short talks will be given at the dinner which will be followed by bridge.

Mrs. E. Carl Shreve, Miss Peg Lynch, Miss Orpha Benita Pritchard, this city, Miss Nancy Bell Kempher, McCoolle and Mrs. James Hill, Hagerstown, will be special guests. Mrs. William Babst is chairman of arrangements and is being assisted by Mrs. Maxwell and Miss Catherine Catlett.

Mrs. Maxwell was installed as president for the ensuing year, by Mrs. Lois Low, retiring president, at the meeting held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. William Hahn, 122 Glenmore street.

Other officers installed are Mrs. Hahn, vice-president; and Mrs. Mary Goldsworthy, secretary.

Committees and chairmen appointed include Mrs. John Blau, program chairman, assisted by Mrs. George Perdue and Miss Lillian Boughton; Mrs. William Loar, social chairman, assisted by Mrs. William Babst; Mrs. Whiting Linaburg, philanthropic chairman, assisted by Mrs. Paul Goldsworthy; Mrs. William Lutzler and Mrs. Maxwell; Miss Dorothy Kaplan, and means chairman with Mrs. Ralph Luman; Miss Catherine Catlett, publicity chairman; and Mrs. Charles Aronholt, scrap book chairman.

"Bet your boots I'm early today, Alice, I've been washin' with MORE SUDS!"

Mrs. Lena Mees of Lodi, New Jersey, learned about getting more suds by making the "milk-bottle suds test"

ALICE and me always race to see who gets their clothes on the line first," says Mrs. Mees. "I sure beat her first time I used Super Suds. Those extra suds knock the stuffing out of dirt in a hurry!"

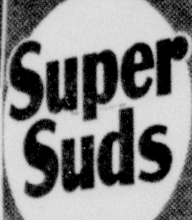

For years women have said they want more suds, longer-lasting suds, because such suds are harder-working... save rubbing, time, and soap. Now, here are more suds, longer-lasting suds in new sudsier Super Suds. See for yourself!

MAKE THE "MILK-BOTTLE SUDS TEST"!
Put two teaspoons of your regular wash-day soap and a glass of water in a milk-bottle. Do the same with new sudsier Super Suds in another milk-bottle. Even hard or cold water will do. Then shake the bottles. Just see if there aren't lots more suds, longer-lasting suds in the Super Suds bottle!

Cumberland Service Club Plans Various Activities

Members Will Expand Programs for Entertainment of Service Men

Further plans for various activities for the series of open-house recreational programs for service men were discussed at the meeting of the hostess committee of the Cumberland Service Club, Monday evening in Central Y.M.C.A.

These programs, designed as a means of offering USO facilities to the men from the Bedford Springs Naval Training Station and to other service men on leave, are given each Saturday evening from 7:30 to 11 o'clock in the Victory room of the Y.

Badminton and cards will soon be added to the dancing, bowling and swimming programs which have featured the Saturday evening entertainments.

The committee adopted a plan whereby the selection of junior hostesses will be made by registering girls over sixteen who are interested in serving as hostesses, and hostess cards will be given to those selected.

A different group will be asked to serve each Saturday and they will be under the supervision of senior hostesses.

Application forms may be obtained from any member of the hostess committee, or at the Y. Girls selected will be notified by the receipt of their hostess card.

Members of the hostess committee who also serve as senior hostesses are:

Mrs. L. R. Meyers, chairman; Mrs. Harry Flook, Miss Naomi Enfield, Miss Catherine Barker, Miss Jane Giehrst, Miss Anne Frances Whiting, Miss Virginia Helitz, Miss Inez Nevy, Miss Frances Eisenberger, Miss Veronica Kompanek, Mrs. Marvin Inge, Mrs. J. Stanley Hunter, Jr., Miss Le Ora Eggleston, Miss Charlotte Collins, and Miss Virginia Le Clear.

Editors of Naval Academy Year Book To Choose Queen

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 17 (AP) — The editorial staff of the United States Naval Academy yearbook will choose "Miss Maryland" of the University of Maryland this year—a job usually performed by celebrities.

From twenty-six contenders, Maryland students have chosen twelve girls candidates. From their pictures the editors of the naval academy yearbook, "The Lucky Bag," will select "Miss Maryland" and a court of five princesses.

Fred Johnson, editor of the Maryland yearbook, "The Terrapin," announced the change this year. "With the war going on we think that some branch of the services should be represented" in the selections, he said. "We think these boys will be more conscientious than celebrities who usually have done the judging in the past."

The name of the beauty queen and her princesses will be announced later this month.

Family Dinner Hour Should Be A Pleasant One

Dr. Myers Lists Home Duties of Mothers Who Don't Work

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.
On several occasions we have discussed mothers who work away from home and their growing children. Now a word to the mother who does not work, whose entire family can eat one or two meals a day together.

Have you ever thought what it must mean to a working mother to wonder all day at work whether her child is safe from physical and moral harm? Have you ever imagined how it would be to come home and find your child worn out every evening to do another day's work there, and still to be a good companion to the rest of the family? Have you ever considered what it would mean if your family rarely or never could have a meal together?

Pleasant Dinner Hour

If you have a family whose program can run regularly, are you making the most of this privilege? Have your children learned to share the home duties? Have they been disciplined to present themselves on time to meals without needless bother to others? Have you regulated the use of the radio to the advantage of all concerned? Have you cultivated a calm dinner hour where all members of your family share in quiet, though animated, conversation, each participating while considering the rights of others?

As never before, it seems to me that families ought to make the family dinner hour a pleasant and only productive educational hour.

Those parents who have great opportunities to bring up their children well, but fail to do so, are hardly making a very patriotic contribution to their country. The larger our opportunities, the greater our obligations. In the long run, those parents with the greatest opportunities are most responsible for the citizenship or crime of their respective communities.

Lack of Discipline

The tragedy of it is that so many parents of opportunity have embraced the doctrine so long and widely preached that children should not be restrained "lest their personalities be warped." It's the lack of home discipline that, more often than not, has warped so many personalities and even tied them into knots. This war is going to bring a lot of disillusioned parents to their senses.

Montgomery Ward's Reply To The NATIONAL WAR LABOR BOARD

November 13, 1942

National War Labor Board
Department of Labor Building
Washington, D. C.

Gentlemen:

We have the National War Labor Board's order of November 5*. In this order the Board demands that Montgomery Ward and Company enter into a contract establishing a form of closed shop called "Maintenance of Membership", together with a check-off of union dues from wages. Under this form of closed shop, the employees who are members of the union would not be free to resign from the union without being discharged, and Wards would not be free to retain a competent worker who had resigned from the union. This making of union membership a condition of employment is the essence of the closed shop. Whatever form it may take, "Maintenance of Membership" is the starting phase which inevitably leads to the full closed shop.

The President of the United States is quoted as having said, on November 14, 1941, "The Government of the United States will not order, nor will Congress pass legislation ordering the so-called closed shop." Wards is in agreement with this statement and believes that the Board's order is not in accordance with the President's principles. Wards believes that the Board's demands not only violate the fundamental principles of liberty, but are economically unsound and are illegal under the terms of the National Labor Relations Act. If the Board's order against Wards is enforced, the pattern will be established by which all unions in all industries can secure a form of closed shop and check-off merely by appealing to the War Labor Board.

The Board further ordered a form of compulsory arbitration for Wards. Wards is not opposed to voluntary arbitration. However, Wards' management should not, as demanded by the Board, abandon responsibilities which have been vested in it by the owners of the corporation, and so surrender to outside arbitrators the final decision on all matters which the union may wish to treat as grievances.

The Board further ordered that Wards guarantee its wages and other working conditions for a one-year period. Wards believes that a fixed duration of one year is unsound in these uncertain times. Wards operates in a highly competitive field composed of 1,750,000 retail establishments. It is unfair to impose burdens on Wards and not upon those with whom it is in competition.

Wards' efforts to preserve the essential freedoms between itself and its employees have not been prompted by any feeling of anti-unionism. The report of the mediation panel expressly recognizes this fact. Wards' policy has been to obey the law. Wards has twenty-nine union contracts with both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions. Wards has already given its employees the increases in wages previously recommended by the Board. Wards did this even though its wages were already as high as or higher than those prevailing in the industry and have been increased an average of over 21% since January 1941. Wards is willing to include these increases in a contract with the union. There is no issue over wages.

The War Labor Board was created by the President to replace the old Defense Mediation Board. The Mediation Board was destroyed by the resignation of the union members following the Board's vote of nine to two against a closed shop in the captive coal mine case. The War Labor Board, in name only, is composed of representatives of the unions, of industry and of the public. The union representatives are men chosen for leadership by the unions, and have actually protected the interests of the unions. On the other hand, neither industry nor the public have had any voice in the selections of those who presumably represent them. By their decisions, the supposed representatives of industry and of the public have because of inexperience, prejudice or lack of understanding, abandoned the interests of those whom they were appointed to represent.

Under the Constitution, Congress is the sole law-making authority. If closed shops and compulsory arbitration are to become requirements upon employers, it is Congress and not the War Labor Board which should make them so. Congress has not empowered the Board to order any employer to do any of the things it demands of Wards. Accordingly, Wards rejects the order of the Board. If Congress imposes closed shops, compulsory arbitration or contracts for a year's duration on employers, or if the President of the United States, as Commander-in-Chief in time of war, directs that Wards accept the Board's rulings, which we earnestly believe are illegal and uneconomic, we will respectfully obey.

Yours very truly,

MONTGOMERY WARD AND COMPANY

Must Feed Foreigners, Sec. Wickard Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard told the New York Herald-Tribune forum on current problems that it was a political necessity that starvation disappear from any country occupied by American forces.

"We must make sure that reoccupation by our forces," he said in a prepared address, "will be accompanied by a swift and well-planned importation of food, seed and essential supplies."

Wickard said that there might be chaos behind the lines if freed people were not fed, but that when the word went out that freedom meant a square meal "the people in territory still under the conqueror will work just that much harder for liberation."

Byrnes Declares Profits Are Out For the Duration

Supports Plan for $25,000 Ceiling Imposed on Salaries

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Economic Director James F. Byrnes, declaring that "we must now take the profits out of war," has spoken for compulsory savings and in support of the $25,000 ceiling imposed on salaries.

He said, too, that it was clear that "many more commodities must be rationed. He did not name any, however.

In an address prepared for the New York Herald Tribune forum, Byrnes spoke reassuringly of civilian restrictions and wartime controls, saying they were intended to help the average person to obtain more goods than he could otherwise and to buy what he needs at a price lower than he would pay otherwise.

"In wartime," he remarked, "price controls, wage controls and rationing controls are not ingenious devices to punish people and to make the grim business of war grimmer than it need be. They are measures designed to help our war effort and to reduce the hardships of war, particularly on the family in modest circumstances.

"By and large, the average citizen x x x has less to fear from price, wage and rationing controls than he has from their absence."

Contending that excess purchasing power must be siphoned off, the chief of the government's economic stabilization program said this could be done by taxation and by "an equitably devised plan of compulsory savings."

The savings, he explained, would be returned to the people, after the war, over a period of years, and then they would have money to spend to create markets for peacetime products and to provide employment. This step, he said, might prevent a business depression. If one came anyway, savings would enable many to escape want and suffering.

Byrnes said he disagreed with some persons who believed that limitations on salaries in higher brackets were in the nature of social reforms imposed under the guise of war needs.

"When men of enterprise are fighting on the desert sands," he said, "men of enterprise at home should not object to sharing the burdens of war."

Oyster and Crab Industry Hard Hit By Tin Shortage

CRISFIELD, Md., Nov. 17 (AP)—Government restrictions on the use of tin, unless modified, will demoralize the oyster and crab meat packing businesses, in the opinion of Egbert L. Quinn, Crisfield publisher and city councilman.

Quinn said unless restrictions were eased and packers could get tin cans he feared that most of the oyster and crab meat packing establishments in Crisfield and elsewhere along the Chesapeake Bay area would have to close.

Already, he continued, the government order prohibiting manufacture of tin cans for crab meat had caused distress, although it only went into effect Oct. 31.

Attempts to find a substitute can had failed, and many packers had nearly exhausted their supplies of tins, he reported.

The only domestic one used now in the manufacture of aluminum comes from the Arkansas deposits. This represents about one-third of the total ore employed in the production of aluminum in the United States.

Shortage of Shells May End Hunting

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—Maryland hunters have taken to the fields after small game and land fowl, amid indications that the supply of ammunition for peace-time pursuits is running low.

In the Frederick area, local dealers reported that no more regular size shotgun shells were in stock, and that efforts to get ammunition from Hagerstown and Baltimore had proved unsuccessful.

State conservation officials warned hunters not to waste their ammunition, and said that if shells and cartridges were used indiscriminately, the federal government would probably curtail hunting privileges for next year.

Secretary Harold S. Kolmer of the State Game and Inland Fish commission, requested hunters to return their empty shells to sporting goods stores so the brass could be salvaged. He also urged them to preserve feathers and grease for salvage purposes.

The United States is the largest leather producing country in the world with an annual output normally greater than that of the next three leading producing areas, the department of Commerce says.

McNutt Favors Draft for Men Slack on Jobs

Would Put Those Frequently Absent from Work in the Army

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (P)—Paul V. McNutt states that war workers who are frequently absent from the job without good excuses should have their draft deferments revoked.

The chairman of the War Manpower Commission told a press conference that he had urged this policy for selective service but did not indicate whether action along this line had been taken. Some war contractors have complained that unjustifiable absences of workmen have hampered production.

Selective service announced during the day that production of transportation equipment and military textiles had been added to the previous list of thirty-seven activities deemed essential to the war effort. The list was prepared for guidance of draft boards in granting deferment to key workers.

McNutt declared that the War Manpower Commission had prevented curtailment of war production and loss of farm crops despite development of the nation's first serious labor shortages during October.

Asked about charges by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) that the government was wasting manpower by keeping unneeded workers on its payrolls, McNutt said agents of the commission had been instructed to look among government personnel for employees who could be spared for other work.

Most government agencies which are accused of hoarding workers, he said, reply that even though they might not need all their employees immediately, they soon might be given tasks that require all these employees and others besides.

McNutt said he knew of instances where government agencies had pirated employees from other agencies by offering them higher pay but added that the agencies were cooperating more and more with efforts to eliminate hoarding and pirating.

Devil Dogs Get A New Recruit

PEARL HARBOR, T. H. (P)—On the crew roster of one of the Navy's warships, Butch probably is written off as a "deserter," but at Fari Harbor Marine Corps headquarters Butch is listed as a recruit.

Butch is a Boston bulldog whose tag reads: "Mascot of the USS."

Three times within recent days Butch has jumped ship and reported at headquarters.

"I guess," commented Quartermaster Clerk L. H. Alexander, "he just isn't sea-going."

"I guess," remarked Sergeant-Major William Seyler, "he heard about bulldogs being official Marine mascots."

"I guess," said Mess Sergeant Warren Glossner, "I'll set another place for chow."

Jailers 'Break' Prisoner Out This Time

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 17 (P)—Jailers had to "break" a willing prisoner out of the city lockup recently.

The man in the cell was due to get out but the key wouldn't work. Sergeant E. F. Armsler, Jr., with a firm grip on the hammer, pounded at the lock.

The city's scrap pile was increased with a half-pound of battered brass

Teachers' Relief Fund Election

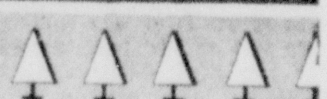

The school teachers of Allegany county, Monday, November 16, by ballot, elected the following trustees who will administer the relief fund maintained by their contributions: Orble B. Boughton, Fort Hill High School, president; Miss Lila M. Blonskey, Penna. Ave. School, secretary-treasurer; and William G. Fatkin, Luke School, associate. The "ex-officio" trustees of the funds are: Edgar A. Dashiell, president of the Board of Education and Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Kitchen Gadgets Hit by WPB Order

Production of Thousands of Items Made of Steel To Halt Nov. 23

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17, (AP)—The War Production Board today prohibited, effective November 23, production of thousands of kitchen tools and utensils made of iron or steel.

Taking the final steps in a series of orders designed to conserve metals going into kitchen gadgets, the order eliminated—as far as iron steel is used—such common items as bottle openers, cork screws, dip-pers, sieves, bread boxes and jugs.

In hundreds of other instances, WPB permitted continued production on condition that metal use be cut drastically.

For instance, the small amount of metal allotted for can openers will be sufficient to take only the cutting part of this tool, necessitating wooden or other substitute handles.

Since the manufacturers and stores still have large quantities of these items, however, the result of the order may not become apparent to civilians for several months. Newly-weds may be the first to feel the pinch, because of their usual necessity of starting out with the purchase of new kitchen equipment.

President

The Vandegrift message, coupled with previous reports, showed that at least five admirals were in the battle area, and probably in the action itself. Rear Admiral Norman Scott, like Callaghan, was killed in action. The other two mentioned by Vandegrift were identified by the navy as Willis August Lee of Owen-sion, Ky., and Thomas C. Kinkaid, of Philadelphia, the fifth rear admiral was Kelly Turner, who com-manded a task force which took part in the battle.

The presence of these high rank-ing officers and possibly of others gave a clue to the size of the Amer-ican forces in the main encounter of the Solomons which was fought out in the early darkness of last Friday (Guadalcanal time) with the United States battleships in full ac-tion for the first time since the Spanish-American war.

Devastating Blow for Enemy
The fact that Rear Admiral Scott had been killed was disclosed by the navy today along with the death in action of Captain Cassin Young, captain of the flag ship of Rear Ad-miral Callaghan, whose death had been reported yesterday.

Scott, 53, was from Kirkwood, Mo., and Young, 48, had recently made his home in Coronada, Calif. Young held the Medal of Honor for exceptional bravery at Pearl Harbor, during the Japanese attack on De-cember 7. He was blown off his ship by a terrific explosion in the burning battleship Arizona, tied up alongside, but swam back, climbed aboard and moved his ship out of a sea of flaming oil to safety.

Starting with Navy Secretary Knox's press conference this morn-ing estimates of the effect of the battle on the course of the war in the Pacific came from many quar-ters and were in general agreement that the Japanese had been dealt a devastating blow which would make it more difficult for them to under-take any new adventure although they still have enough naval strength left to try again for the Southeastern Solomons if they are willing to take that risk.

Knox said the engagement was a "major action but not a decisive one." He declared that it ended "round two" of the Solomons cam-paigns and cautioned that this meant there might be a round three.

The wave of optimism over the triumph was matched by the praise and enthusiasm shown on the part of the high command for the men and officers who had done it.

Beat Off Superior Force
Knox declared that "they not only met and drove from the field a numerically superior force but em-ployed the most daring type of ac-tion to accomplish that result."

The secretary mentioned by name Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, the Pa-cific fleet commander, Vice-Admiral William F. Halsey, widely known as an exponent of the principle of attack, who commands in the South Pacific, and Rear Admiral Callaghan. The deaths of Scott and Young had not been announced when the secretary met with the press.

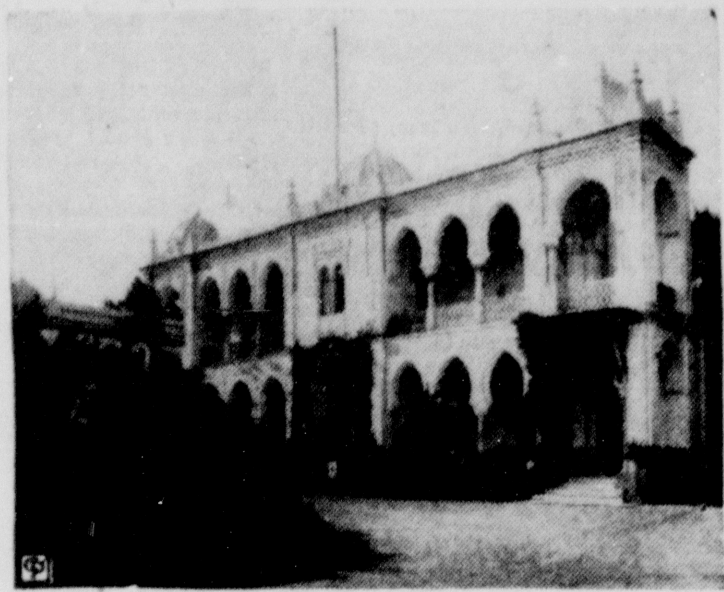

Later in the day, the Navy de-partment released messages of con-gratulation from Admiral Ernest J. King, Fleet Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Nimitz, and Rear Admiral Turner at the same time a message from Vandegrift was made public. "Well done," wired King, "from all here to all participants. Army, Navy and Marine corps, for the re-pelling of a powerful attack by de-termined enemy. We regret the losses but know that those who were killed gave their lives as freely as would the other thousands sharing the risks."

"The names of Savo, Tulagi and Guadalcanal will live in history as symbols of sacrifice, courage, devo-tion and tenacity due to your brave and gallant action."

Admiral Nimitz told the Amer-ican forces that their offensive spirit was magnificent and that their losses "were not in vain."

Expected Japs to Return
Admiral Turner told the men of his task force that "no medals can possibly do the alive and the dead adequate honor." He disclosed that some of the American forces taking part in the action had arrived in the Guadalcanal area just previ-ously with reinforcements for the troops there and he said that hav-ing successfully accomplished this mission these forces "then magnifi-cently and with eagerness became the sharp edge of the sword which cut the enemy's throat."

Knox tempered his optimism as to the results of the victory with the statement that "the only safe assumption is that the Japanese will come back," and he added "that's exactly what we're making our plans for."

But he said that the losses which the Japanese have suffered would make it much more difficult for them to organize a new attack and meanwhile American forces have been left in complete control of their positions on Guadalcanal and of the sea approaches to that much disputed island.

Asked whether the United States could now be said to hold "naval supremacy" Knox replied that was a speculative term and all he could say was that at the moment we have naval supremacy around Guadalcanal.

Daring Methods Used
The secretary expressed the belief that the process of attrition would work more against the Japanese navy than against our own because of this country's capacity for build-ing many ships fast. But offsetting this, to some extent, he continued is the fact that the Japanese oper-ate in waters close to home while "our navy is spread all over the seven seas."

Knox did not amplify his state-ment regarding the "daring" meth-ods by which the Japanese were smashed but he apparently referred to the tactics by which the Amer-ican force split into two columns and moved down two lanes formed by three columns of enemy vessels approaching Guadalcanal from the north.

Naval men said that a more dif-ficult and daring maneuver would be hard to imagine. The American battleships and cruisers went in with guns belching flaming death in both directions and deadly torpedoes hurtling from both sides of the destroyers. Admiral Nimitz said it was certain "our battleships con-tributed to the loss of the enemy to a great degree."

Many naval men here hailed this, as did Nimitz, as a vindication of their deep rooted faith that the mightiest of naval surface weapons still had a place in modern warfare despite the terrific and far reaching offensive power of aircraft.

Military sources said that even a superb mechanical army like Mont-gomery's sooner or later has to pause to repair the wear and tear on machines and men.

As Rommel retreats, his forces pick up communications and supply groups as well as garrisons which manned the long land route from Tripoli to Egypt. His first-line fighters are believed to have dwindled to fewer than 20,000 tired and tattered men, but the men he has picked up on his retreat probably have swollen his surviving force to between 70,000 and 100,000 men.

Their remaining equipment is so sparse, however, and their morale is believed so low that they are no longer considered a formidable fighting force.

free to make his choice," Barkley continued. "I am in no sense an applicant for it."

Measure Passed House

The anti-poll tax bill, which passed the House in a different form, has never formally come before the Senate despite Barkley's efforts, begun last Friday, to bring it up.

Today the opponents, spearhead-ed by Senator Russell (D-Ga.), made use of an assortment of par-liamentary delaying tactics to pre-vent Barkley from moving its con-sideration during the "morning hour" which ended at 2 p. m. A motion to consider the bill, lodged before that hour, would not have been debatable under the Senate's rules. The delay, however, left the motion open to unlimited debate.

Russell charged the legislation was an effort to "smear the South" and control the states' election ma-chinery like "the carpetbaggers and scoundrels of the Reconstruction period."

Fourteen of the sixteen Senators from states with poll taxes were present, and they voted solidly against Barkley's motions to table appeals from parliamentary rulings by Vice President Wallace. Bark-ley's motions, however, prevailed; one by a vote of 41 to 23, the other by 40 to 23.

The poll tax states are Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Georgia, South Carolina, Virginia and Texas.

Hitler Reported

terranean. Some, however, were said to have been sent to the West for rest after their terrific mauling by the Russians.

This big-scale shifting of forces, these informants said, accounted for the slackening of the Nazi drive in Russia where the invader is said to be building new defense lines west of the Don.

Besides their own private infor-mation, the observers here said published accounts from Turkey indi-cated something was afoot in the Bal-cans. Among these was a dispatch telling of German use of Bulgarian labor for hurried construction of new airfields near Turkey's North-west frontier.

Hitler's Strategy
It is obvious, they said, that Hit-ler's order to Axis forces to hold at all costs in Tunisia and Berlin's report that Marshal Rommel soon would attempt to make a stand all were prompted by the frustrated fuhrer's desire to create a delaying action, possibly even to bisect the Mediterranean at the Sicilian Strait, in preparation for a campaign in the Middle East.

Military observers pointed out that this campaign always was on Hitler's program, except that it was conceived originally as one claw of a pincers with Rommel as the other.

Now in view of Rommel's rout the alternative is a sickle-like slash, probably through Cyprus and Syria and possibly even Turkey.

Evangelist Talks to Allegany Students

Miss Betty Weakland, ges-peaker at Allegany high school assembly yesterday encouraged students to aim for a higher goal in life. This idea was expressed by topics of her address dealing with "Walls of Education, Patriotism, Homelife and Christianity." Miss Weakland remarked that the wall of education, patriotism and home life may fall but the wall of God's fainty will be a protection for the people forever. Miss Weakland, who has been with her for the last years of her evangelistic life, the faculty and students were invited to attend the church services in the First Baptist church where she will be the guest preacher for the following two weeks.

The flag salute was given by Philip Lucas and the scripture was read by Ethel Thayer. Music was supplied by the Allegany High School Senior Orchestra under the direction of Miss Dorothy Williams.

hands. God wants people who are foolish enough to take Him at His word and believe that His power is unchanged."

Miss Weakland said that some people have the idea that God is poor and they have to push Him in a chariot up the hill. She emphasized that God isn't rationed and it is only necessary to believe His word. "In these days when the world is at war and it seems as if all the forces of evil are unloosed, it is good to have His word to lean upon," she said.

Tonight the girl preacher's theme will be "A Neglected Doctrine."

Canlor Will Have Baker as Guest Tonight on Radio

Hendrik W. van Loon Will Be in Salute Program by Jack Pearl

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Phil Baker, now of the sixty-four dollar questions, and Eddie Canlor are going to get together in the same broadcast Wednesday. It will be the Canlor show on NBC at 9. Maybe Eddie, despite their get-together, will be put on the other end of one of those Baker questions, the kind that stumped Jack Benny when he called around at a Baker broadcast.

Jack Pearl, who as the Baron now says he hails from Holland, will have a noted Dutch writer, Hendrik Willem van Loon, as his guest on MBS at 9:15. The visitor is to comment on Pearl on his efforts to remind Americans of the Dutch struggle against Nazism. The entire program will be a salute to the Netherlands government in exile.

DOCTORS WARN CONSTIPATED FOLKS ABOUT LAZY LIVER

IT IS SAID constipation causes many human discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. BUT DON'T WORRY—

For years a noted Ohio Doctor, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully treated scores of patients for constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists everywhere.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful! They not only gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO stir up liver bile secretion to help digest fatty foods. Test their goodness TONIGHT without fail! 15c, 30c, 60c. Follow label directions.

Idaho's Pension Act Means Much To Old Folks

Provides $40 Monthly Plus Artificial Limbs and Eyeglasses

By HAROLD F. OSBORNE

BOISE CITY, Idaho, Nov. 17.—Artificial limbs and teeth, eyeglasses and $40 cash per month are promised Idaho's aged residents in the state's new Pension act.

The law, which also provides for $2 in medical care monthly for each citizen sixty-five or older and $100 per person burial costs threatens plenty of headaches for the Gem state's legislators and taxpayers.

Approved by popular vote in the recent election, opponents call it one of the most liberal pension measures in the nation and assert it might cost as much as $5,250,000 a year.

Members of the new general assembly meeting in January already are wondering how they'll raise money for it, in the face of pre-election vows by both parties to cut expenses.

Bryon Defenbach, director of the Idaho Taxpayers' League, who made the $5,250,000 estimate, asserted "a property tax of $13 per $1,000 of valuation or a sales tax of at least five per cent will be the only possible answers to the legislature acts on this measure."

Lewis Williams, Boise Townsend Club official, thinks Defenbach's estimate too high. He declined to set a figure himself although saying earlier: "Whatever the plan costs, it's worth it."

Legislators have at least three courses open: Refuse to appropriate funds, amend or repeal the act, or boost tax revenues.

Republican Gov.-Elect C. A. Bottelstein earlier pledged efforts to reduce state income tax collections by raising exemptions "if I am given a Republican legislature."

Now he has a Republican-dominated legislature and they have the pension-financing worries, also the knowledge that more than 72,000 Idahoans voted "yes" on the old age benefits question.

Road to Romance

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

MARY AWOKE slowly, to the twittering of spring robins and the placid warmth of the sun. Somewhere Fran was singing a lilting swing number from "Always in My Heart." Peacefully she watched three seagulls wing their screaming way past her window and out to sea. Last night was not a dream! Her body thrilled again to the memory of Bruce Martin's kisses, his strong, yet gentle embrace. And she would see him tonight!

She threw back the covers, slid her feet into her slippers and wrapped her white robe about her. It was then she saw Fran's open suitcase on the floor.

"You going away for the weekend?" she called, coming into the bright kitchen a few minutes later, looking rosy fresh, her bright hair still pinned up from her shower.

"What on earth?" she asked. Fran was shutting happily from service porch to kitchen. The kitchen was cluttered with ironing board, baking dishes, cleaning fluid. "I'm doing a little washing, ironing, baking and breakfast cooking," sang Fran. "I've been working on the railroad!" She pulled out three layers of chocolate cake from the oven, then dashed back to turn off the water in the bathtub on the porch.

Mary laughed helplessly. "You make an adorable lunatic." Fran came running back to grab Mary in a bear hug and wait for her around the kitchen, dodging tables, chairs and ironing board. Then, breathless and laughing, she shoved her toward the sugar bin. "You make the frosting," she demanded, "while I whip up a smattering of breakfast. You make the best frosting, and everything has to be of the best!"

"Why?" cried Mary. Fran slammed the ice box door with her elbow and carried grapefruit, bacon and eggs across to the sink. "Because it's for our wedding picnic," she grinned. "You and I and Ken and Burke are leaving for Yuma right after your work tonight, driving till dawn, and then Burke and I are contributing five bucks to some lucky justice of the peace in that fair burg. After that we'll have the picnic. It's the home wedding touch."

"Fran!" Mary put down the sugar and grabbed Fran in another hug. "Oh, Fran—that's wonderful! Did you decide last night?"

"Yep. When Burke got his orders to leave for the Navy on Monday and thought it was unfair to me to marry him first I decided in a jiffy. You think, I told him, 'you're going to find some lovely Australian hussy and you don't want to be tied down. I'll fix that.' She waved a peremptory hand at Mary. "Hurry up with that frosting!"

As they ate a gay breakfast, Fran stopped chattering long enough to say, "I wanted to tell you last night, but I couldn't stay awake long enough. Were you out with Ken?"

"No." Mary ate on demurely, but her rising color betrayed her. Fran shouted, "Mary!" And as Mary looked up with a blissful smile, she chorried, "Well, knock me down and tie my tongue! Let's have it!"

Mary told her of Bruce's change of heart, their ride. "Look," cried Fran excitedly. "Let's make it a double wedding! I've always wanted one, ever since I was a kid."

Mary laughed. "He didn't ask me to marry him—not yet," she added in a rapturous whisper. "But I might ask him if he wants to go along tonight."

"Sure!" Fran buttered a slice of toast rapidly. "Sure—and he's sunk after a moonlight ride to Yuma—it's going to be full moon, too—in the same car with a pair of turtle doves like me and Burke—"

"Turtle doves!" scoffed Mary. "You mean Mexican fighting cocks!"

"That's love, chickadee," Fran grinned. "We're both so ornery we thought we better keep it in one family. Now you and Burke will be different. He won't be able to pick a good fight with you, but he'll have a wonderful time taking care of you, making you happy, you're so little and cute and helpless."

As Mary sat at her desk that night signing in applicants with light-hearted speed, she smiled wryly over Fran's description of her. If Fran only knew the double life she was leading, she thought. She seemed to be two people these days; one the sweet, sensitive, confiding Mary who worked in personnel and carried a torch for a handsome test pilot; the other a strange, competent, fearless person, untouched by the storm of personal emotions, responding to orders without question, aware of a grave, wide horizon of new responsibility.

She was called into Danver's office at 8 o'clock. "Do you still want an assignment?"

"Of course," she said automatically. "I'm glad," he smiled at her. "You've been our lucky piece this time. You cracked the thing we've been working on for three months. We're grateful, Mary Dexter."

"But what did I do?" Mary cried, startled. He shoved a confusing telegram toward her, smiled as she struggled to make the sense of it. "You brought us our positive proof that Joe Banks and his gang are in the big league. Remember the license number you got off the coupe Joe Banks borrowed to take you out? Well, his taking out the car was undoubtedly the reason his friends were angry with him that night. They had it in storage because its number is that of the car that was stopped at the Mexican border four months ago—the car that was carrying the marked blueprints!

Mary gasped. And she had almost not turned it in!

"We know some of the gang, of course," Danver was going on rapidly now. "We even know they are concentrating their plans on the shipment of planes here now, waiting for exportation facilities. But we have waited to make a real roundup. We need your help in this, Mary."

The wedding plans flashed through Mary's mind even as she answered Danver steadily. "What do I do?"

"You are to have luncheon with Joe Banks now. You are in some desperate, secret trouble which you must talk over with him tonight. Make it urgent that he meet you after work. When your work is over meet him promptly and insist on his keeping his date—because he won't want to."

"Why not?" said Mary, incredulously. "Because," Danver replied, "we have moved him into the transportation department tonight. At closing time he will learn the shipment of planes is to leave the plant early tomorrow morning. He will be upset, wanting to get this news through to headquarters."

"I see. And you want me to stick with him?"

"Just until he phones. Trace his call and report at once to me. Then you're through for the evening."

"Okay," said Mary. "And good luck with the round-up."

She hurried out of the administration building and crossed the plant grounds toward the cafeteria. A new girl from personnel was walking slowly toward the lunchroom. Mary slowed her pace to walk with her. "How you getting along?" she asked cheerfully.

The girl looked at her resentfully. "I hate it," she said. "I never thought I'd work in a factory! Why, it's not even living."

Mary glanced at the testing field as a plane zoomed into the air, her gaze swung around over the great buildings—the administration building with the F. B. I. the personnel building, the cafeteria building, the hangar. She smiled with sudden warmth at the girl. "I think you'll find plenty of—living here," she said. They went into the brightly lighted cafeteria, and as they started down the counter with their trays Mary's searching eyes picked out Joe Banks.

WHAT CIGARETTE GIVES SMOKERS WHAT THEY WANT

They stick to their guns with a Milder Better-Tasting smoke

Ask any Chesterfield smoker why he smokes them and he'll probably say: "I just like them better... that's all." Of course, the reason he likes them better is their Milder, Better Taste.

For Chesterfields we buy only tobaccos that are Milder and Better-Tasting to begin with and blend them in the right combination to bring out the finer qualities of each tobacco.

That's why Chesterfields give smokers what they want. That's why They Satisfy.

Becomes Bride of Lonaconing Man

Corp. John Stewart Marries Hattiesburg, Miss., Girl in Washington

LONACONING, Nov. 17 — Miss Jewelle Clinton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Clinton, Hattiesburg, Miss., and Corp. John "Racket" Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stewart, Rockville street, Lonaconing, were united in marriage by the Rev. Edward B. Harris in the Washington Episcopal church, Washington, D. C., October 2.

Attendants at the wedding ceremony were Tech. Corp. Michael Slyman and Staff Sgt. John L. Lester, of Washington, D. C., and the Misses Hazel McCurley and Margaret Heath, of Hattiesburg, Miss.

The bride was attired in a light wool dress with soldier blue accessories and a corsage of orchids. Miss McCurley and Miss Heath were attired similar to the bride. The bridegroom and the men attendants wore army uniforms.

Following the ceremony they were honored at a wedding supper which was held at Lotus, Washington, D. C. The newlyweds came to the bridegroom's home in Lonaconing for a wedding trip. Mrs. Stewart wore a blue suit and blue accessories.

While the couple were here a supper was held for some friends of Corp. Stewart, Lawrence McKenzie, Alvin Gentry, James Dick and Abraham McPartland.

Mrs. Stewart is employed by the United States government on the Veteran's Administration board, Washington, D. C. Corp. Stewart is stationed with the Seventy-First Coast Artillery, A. A. Battery G, General Delivery, Washington, D. C. Their place of residence is 631 C street, Northeast, Washington, D. C.

Dentist To Practice in Garrett County

OAKLAND, Nov. 17 — Dr. John Grant Robinson, 75, retired dentist, died on the front porch of his home on Seventh street last night about 10 o'clock as the result of a heart attack.

Dr. Robinson was the eighth of fourteen children and was born August 26, 1867, in Cambridge, Eastern Shore.

At the age of twelve his family moved to Baltimore where his father was a member of a music establishment. Here he received a liberal education in various branches of music. For his career he chose the profession of dentistry, graduating at the age of twenty-two from the Maryland Dental College of Surgery. He practiced in Baltimore until 1904 when ill health brought him to Oakland, where he established an office, the second fully accredited dental doctor in this county, being preceded by Dr. Singleton Townsend.

Six Children Survive

In 1897 he married Martha Elizabeth Hinebaugh, and to this union were born seven children, six of whom are living. They are The Rev. Felix G. Robinson, Oakland; Mrs. C. Fred Husemoller, Washington, D. C.; The Rev. Ralph C. Robinson (naval reserve chaplain) Norfolk, Va.; Mrs. Joseph Gorman, Hampstead, Long Island, N. Y.; John Jarvis Robinson, Allentown, Pa.; and William Howard Phillips Robinson, of Tyler, Texas.

In 1911 he transferred his business to Accident, remaining there until 1917 when he moved to Kempston. In 1919 he moved to Gettysburg, Pa., where he practiced dentistry until 1929. He retired from his profession in 1930 upon returning to Oakland. From then on he occupied himself in beautifying and developing a farm on the Monte Vista road south of Oakland where his oldest son and family reside.

Capt. Seeburger is the husband of the former Miss Marie Louise Mileau, granddaughter of Mrs. Emma Reynolds.

Capt. Seeburger was at Hickam Field, Hawaii, last year during the initial attack on the islands. An army transport brought Mrs. Seeburger and her infant back to this country two months after the war started and since that time they have been living with her parents, Major and Mrs. Alexander Mileau, San Antonio, Texas. Mrs. Seeburger knew nothing of her husband's part in the battle of Midway until a few weeks ago when army air force officials released the news for publication.

Mrs. Seeburger remarked that her husband's deeds were fair payment for the party the enemy staged last year on December 7, when she and her husband had planned to celebrate his thirtieth birthday in (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

Washington Girls
Find Little Time
For Reflection

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous
Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Copyright, 1942,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Among the girls who came to Washington to help win the war there is a growing feeling that Uncle Sam has become harder than necessary.

The girls stood up well under the loss of the metal lipstick container when the old gentleman said, "Nothing doing in metal for your putting lips. That's needed for combat purposes." Depriving the girls of mascara came next. But the boys friends assured them that sweeping lashes looked better without the beaded effect.

But this last "outrage" is too much. Uncle Sam has actually removed mirrors from the ladies' rest rooms in temporary buildings occupied by the War department. Rumor says every mirror in every government department will follow.

Lots of Rumors Result
The Public Building Administration, which is in charge of the structures, removed the mirrors at the request of the War department, and now Washington's various wartime agencies have become so many Walling Walls.

"Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," says the proverb—and the ultimate limit of scorn is to deprive a woman of the means of putting her makeup on straight. What if one cheek blooms like a wild rose and the other one is redder than a winter apple? Perhaps her Cupid's bow mouth is hitched high on one side, conveying saucy laughter, and is down-hearted on the other. Has she forgotten to powder her nose or has it been dusted to sepulchre whiteness?

Rumors concerning the withdrawal of the mirrors are thicker than those which have to do with the national war effort. One circulated report says the reason for mirror-removal in the War department buildings is that the work accomplished by women did not measure up to the time expended. So they got in one of those fiends in human form—an efficiency expert! Then came the order: "Remove all mirrors and stop the preening."

Indignation Swells
Chorus of indignation swelled to a mighty crescendo. The mirror-less ladies of Washington have begun to have the slightly cock-eyed look that is synonymous with modernistic art.

A second rumor cooked up quickly declared that, to win the war, the government needed the quicksilver on the backs of mirrors.

Still, the Wallers at the Walling Wall declined to believe. Then a sanitary expert undertook the business of pacifying them. He said the mirrors were taken down because the pipes in the building were getting clogged up with hair and bobby pins, "creating intolerable sanitary conditions."

Whatever the reason for the removal, many young ladies in our National Capital are discovering that beauty is as beauty does—and it's not done with mirrors.

Regulars and Reservists

Dear Miss Fairfax:
Please explain the difference between coast guard and coast guard reserve. Also the navy and the naval reserve. O.M.

The coast guard regulars are for general service duties; temporary members are for service only on vessels loaned to the coast guard through the coast guard auxiliary. Regulars are exempt from service under selective training, but temporary reservists are not exempt. The ranks correspond, but the reserves do not include a rank above that of lieutenant commander.

Enlistment in the regular navy is for six years. In the naval reserve, the term is two, three or four years, and the reserves may return to civilian life as soon as possible after the war. In the regular navy, age limits are 17 to 31; in the naval reserve, 17 to 50. In the regular navy only unmarried men with no dependents are accepted. In the naval reserve, married men may enlist, but they must be able to support their dependents. Altogether, requirements in the naval reserves are less strict than in the regular navy.

Clothes Allowance

Dear Miss Fairfax:
A sailor is allowed $133 worth of uniforms when he enlists. What about a soldier? J.B.

When a soldier enlists in the army or is drafted, he receives seventy-nine articles of clothing and equipment. These are estimated to be worth about $150.

Technicians and Mechanics

Dear Miss Fairfax:
My son is in the ground crew of the army air force. What sort of a badge will he wear to show what branch of the service he is in? A MOTHER.

Technicians and mechanics in the army air forces will wear a silver badge indicating their skills, as announced by the War department. These badges are in the form of a gear wheel encircled by a wreath and surmounted by a four-blade propeller. Suspended silver bars will denote the wearer's technical skills.

Military Salute

Dear Miss Fairfax:
Does a private salute all officers in the army or just his own superiors? Does a sailor salute all officers in the navy or just his commanding officer? PUZZLED.

The military salute is the courteous recognition between members of the armed forces of our country. The salute is a privilege enjoyed only by members of the military service in good standing; prisoners do not have the right to salute.

Those entitled to it are all officers of our army, navy, marine corps, and coast guard. The army salute salutes the navy and vice versa. It is also customary to salute officers of friendly foreign countries when they are in uniform.

Government Allowance

Dear Miss Fairfax:
My husband has been in the army for six years. Am I entitled to the $28 a month which the government adds to the allowance my husband makes. I've been told that it is for drafted men's families only. J. A. C. D.

The government allowance is for enlisted as well as drafted men's families. Of course, if your husband is ranked above the four lowest grades, you will not be entitled to an allowance.

Hospitalization

Dear Miss Fairfax:
I read in one of your articles that a soldier's wife is entitled to hospitalization during her confinement. I expect a baby this month. My husband is in Alaska and cannot make arrangements for me. I went to the Red Cross and they told me the army hospitals had no room for wives to have their babies. They said I would not be able to get in any of the army camp hospitals here. Would you please give me some information?

The nearest camp to me is Fort MacArthur, at San Pedro, Calif. ARMY WIFE.

I said, specifically, that army wives would be admitted to hospitals during confinement if there is room for them. Service men are given first choice. If you have been receiving your allowance regularly you will have to meet the expenses of your confinement.

The Red Cross in Washington informs me, however, that special consideration is given by them to soldiers' wives during confinement. Write to the Pacific Area, Red Cross Headquarters, Civic Auditorium, Larkin and Grove Sts., San Francisco, Calif. If you have not been receiving your allotment, you can, of course, claim army emergency relief, by writing to the commanding officer at Fort MacArthur.

Too Young for Diamonds

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
My boy friend is 19 ears old and I've been going with him for the past fifteen months. I'm 16. Although we do not intend to marry until I graduate from high school, he has given me a diamond ring. My mother disapproves but she is willing to take your advice on this matter. UNHAPPY.

Sixteen strikes me as too tender an age at which to accept diamond rings. Your mother disapproves. At the same time if she insists upon you returning the diamond ring to the youth of 19, you'll probably both regard yourselves as martyrs. And martyrs are unpredictable.

You say that you and this boy do not intend to marry until you graduate. There are several sides of the question for the young man to consider. What kind of a job has he? Is he capable of supporting you? And how about the draft?

Don't you think that it would be better if, instead of considering marriage at this time, you begin to prepare yourself for some sort of job after graduation? As for that diamond ring, I think the final decision in the matter is up to your mother.

Veronica Lake, March Teamed in Fantasy

The story of witchcraft in modern dress and in a modern setting is one way of describing "I Married a Witch," the Rene Clair fantasy which opens today at the Maryland theatre. The picture has a witch all right—but minus the pointed cap and frightening face—none other, in fact than the lovely blonde Veronica Lake. And Veronica, it must be added, makes an enchanting witch with her hair dressed in the same long over-the-eye fashion.

Her romantic teammate is Wally Wooley in the person of Fredric March, who comes from a long line of Wooleys who have been cursed by the witchmaking profession. Wally, just when Jennifer the witch gets him in her clutches, is about to marry Estella Masterson (Susan Hayward), and practically about to be elected governor of his state. Both of these things the sly little witch sets out to break up.

There's malice in Jennifer's heart in the best tradition of witchcraft, when she sets out to ruin Wally's career. But a love potion compounded by her sorcerer-father, Daniel, who is played by Cecil Kellaway, changes matters and makes her fall madly in love with Wally. There are plenty of hilarious scenes when Jennifer does her best—with the aid of her profession—to keep Wally from wedding his fiancée Estelle.

Betty Rhodes Sings In "Sweater Girl"

Blonde, blue-eyed Betty Jane Rhodes may be America's "Television Girl," but to electricians and cameramen at the Paramount studios in Hollywood she's a "blizzard head."

That, to the uninitiated is a term used by studio "juicers" to describe a blonde whose head is promptly surrounded by a halo the moment the klieg lights are turned on. And that little phenomenon, be it known, gives the "juicers" no end of trouble in providing special lighting. But they love Betty just the same.

Betty Jane sings the hit torch song, "I Don't Want To Walk Without You," in Paramount's mystery musical film of campus life, "Sweater Girl," now at the Strand theatre. Comedian Eddie Bracken and June Preisser have the leading roles, supported by Phillip Terry, Nils Asther, Johnnie Johnston, Ella Neal and Frieda Inescort.

Milton Berle, who has tried a dozen different systems of weight-reducing without success, has finally discovered the perfect method to get rid of the avoirdupois.

Work, and plenty of it, has shaved considerable poundage from Milton's too, too solid flesh. Most of the poundage melted away during the shooting of Twentieth Century-Fox's rib-tickling mystery film "Whispering Ghosts" which is now at the Strand.

"Overland to Deadwood" Closes Today at Embassy

Treacherous ambushes... terrifying dynamite explosions... ruthless attacks by savage outlaws... all fail to stop Charles Starrett and Russell Hayden as they battle their way "Overland to Deadwood." Grimly defying death... the screen's favorite cowboy stars teach bandits there's a load of law in each gun... a blast of lightning in each fist!

Flashing fists... barking guns... and rousing songs are promised in double doses when Columbia's newest western, adventure, "Overland to Deadwood" closes today at the Embassy theatre. Starring Charles Starrett and featuring Russell Hayden, the new thriller also lists Cliff "Ukulele Ike" Edwards and Leslie Brooks in its cast.

"Larceny, Inc." Stars Edward G. Robinson

Edward G. Robinson is starred in "Larceny, Inc.," opening today at the Garden theatre. Jane Wyman and Brod Crawford are also featured.

Also on the Garden program today is "International Lady," starring George Brent, Iлона Massey and Basil Rathbone.

Inaccurate Weights And Scales Go into Metal Scrap Drive

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 17 (AP)—State Labor Commissioner Charles J. F. Sattler hopes that the several tons of inaccurate weights and scales his department contributed to the state's scrap metal collection will meet accurate war needs.

The commissioner turned approximately 800 weighing and measuring devices over to Uncle Sam during a recent scrap drive in Charleston.

The articles, confiscated over a period of fifteen months by the department in enforcing the fair weights and measures law, were described by Sattler as a present from my department to the Japs, sent in care of General MacArthur.

Responding to Drive To Produce Chickens

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 17 (AP)—West Virginia's farmers in all sections are responding to a nationwide drive for off-season production of chickens to supplement the civilian meat supply, the state agriculture department reports.

State hatcheries disclosed numerous early orders for chicks of the heavier breeds and hatcherymen in October were interested in a speed-up of the department's blood-testing program to make available supplies of high quality hatching eggs to meet increased demands.

Rickey-Durocher Conference Ends in Draw

Dodgers' Prexy Defers Decision On Pilot's Post

Whether The Lip Returns as Manager Will Be Decided Tomorrow

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Branch Rickey and Leo Durocher wrestled vocally for eight hours today over the management of the Brooklyn Dodgers and at the end the club's new president announced that he would reveal definitely Thursday afternoon whether Durocher would return as pilot in 1943.

The conference brought together two eloquent conversationalists—Rickey the orator and Leo the Lip. The pair met for breakfast at 7:30 this morning and finished in a draw in mid-afternoon with only momentary interruptions.

Their session was to have been resumed tomorrow morning, but after Durocher had left the Dodgers' office with an appointment set, Rickey changed his mind and postponed their next huddle 'till Thursday, when, he asserted, he would decide once and for all whether or not Durocher would handle the Dodgers for his fifth season.

Rickey made it clear that one of the principal points involved was Durocher's personality and the way he conducted the swashbuckling Dodgers. He added that the possibility of Durocher, who is married but without children, going to service no longer was an obstacle.

Discussing the issues between them, Rickey said: "In contracting for a manager there are many things to consider. Terms are one thing, of course. Whether he plays or not is something. Whether his general ideas are sound, or not, is something. . . . And that's something! (With emphasis)."

"A manager, either in the major leagues or the minors, needs to be sound in discipline. . . . And you can go into that at considerable length if you want to. . . . Both for himself and the club. He needs to be industrious on the job and in this particular business that means rather constantly."

"I don't want to start with a manager and have things come up later that we will have to squabble over. I want to adjust everything before we start."

Durocher Says He Can Play
There seemed no doubt that Durocher, who had a somewhat tricky bonus arrangement last year that may have brought him in excess of $30,000, was being asked to take a cut and the amount apparently depended on whether or not he would return to the roster as an active player at the age of 37.

Durocher's comment was limited to "we've been talking about two or three different things. That's all I can say." In response to a question, though, he added, "sure, I can play—if I have to."

Don Snyder Tops Scorers in CVAL

Allegany High Fullback Has Eight-Point Lead over Cianilli

Don Snyder, Allegany high's hard-driving fullback who scored seven points as the Campers crushed the Martinsburg (W. Va.) Bulldogs 41-0 last Saturday, took over the lead in the Cumberland Valley Athletic League individual point-getting race with twenty-six markers.

Snyder, who was second to Hagerstown's Tony Cianilli before last week's engagement, toted the leather across the Bulldog goal twice for touchdowns and booted five conversions. Cianilli made Hagerstown's six points as Eddie Semler's crew surprised by gaining a 6-6 tie with Fort Hill and is second with eighteen counts.

Robert "Skinny" Martin of Fort Hill is third with thirteen points followed by Jack Smith and Charles "Chick" Kellough of Allegany, each with two touchdowns. Fred Davis, Fort Hill end, is sixth with eight points.

In team scoring, Allegany is far ahead with eighty-seven points for two games. Fort Hill has scored forty-five in three contests and Hagerstown thirty-two in three. Handley has tallied one touchdown while Martinsburg has been held scoreless. Allegany, Fort Hill and Hagerstown each have yielded only six points. Individual and team records follow:

Snyder, Allegany	26	3	8	26
Cianilli, Hagerstown	18	3	0	18
R. Martin, Fort Hill	13	2	1	13
Smith, Allegany	12	2	0	12

Army Mule To Attend Annual Service Game

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 17 (AP)—The famous Army mule will attend the Army-Navy football game here at Thompson stadium November 28, and make no mistake about it—he'll be able to prove he's a legal resident.

Although the United States Naval Academy midshipmen regiment will be divided to provide an Army cheering section, the West Point Cadets aren't casting their fortunes with old Bill IX or any other substitute mascots.

West Point officials, here to discuss service classic plans with Navy Athletic Association officials, have dispatched one of their number to search for a mule to represent the Cadet eleven on the sidelines.

And game rules will be adhered to. The balky, long-eared heifer will be recruited from a farm within the ten-mile area whose residents may attend the game.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—We have just received some information straight from the feed box on the Tulsa football team, the feed box in this case being "Little Bill" Miller, who is practically Mr. Tulsa himself.

Tulsa is the team which has the country at large guessing. The fans are afraid it is good, yet they are afraid that it isn't, so they are a little hesitant about expressing an outspoken opinion.

Not so Little Bill, who gives you his idea in two words—stew pendous. Little Bill is the former coach of champion National A.A.U. basketball teams who now is devoting his full time to promotion of his own system of body control through rhythm and relaxation. He's about 45 years old, about as big as a crab apple, has more pep and vitality than a barrel of monkeys, and can give demonstrations of his theories which will make your eyes blink.

He's more than ordinarily interested in the Tulsa team this year as it is sort of a guinea pig for his theories. Before the Sun bowl game this year in which Tulsa defeated Texas Tech at El Paso he gave the backs, ends and centers of the Hurricane eleven a week's course in his scientific body control, stress-relaxation and body flow.

More Than Coincidence

The Tulsa backs went through the game without a fumble, and the team completed more passes than in any other game in the recent history of the school, with ordinarily poker-legged lads making sensational catches as they went through their chores as loose as sand.

Last spring he worked with the entire squad, and you know what Tulsa has done this fall. Undelected and untied, with only six points scored against it.

Little Bill doesn't take credit from the able coaching staff headed by Henry Frnka, but when you put two and two together and get four it's more than a coincidence, and he does think his system puts the boys in such physical and mental condition that they can concentrate on the game.

"I think the whole country would like to know about this Tulsa team," Little Bill writes. "In the first place, this is no team of ringers. Practically all the key men are from little Oklahoma towns near Tulsa, or from near our border in neighboring states."

"This is a versatile, powerful, alert team which bewilders the most powerful opponents with the variety of its plays. It literally has everything, including five passers and receivers, and kickers in Glenn Dobbs, Purdin, Keithley and Leforce who really can boot 'em."

Team Free from Injuries

"But behind this all-around proficiency is the system of scientific body control on which the boys have so faithfully worked. It stresses relaxation and body flow as contrasted with formal calisthenics and brute power. The team has been amazingly free from injuries, incidentally."

"Some claim Tulsa had an easy schedule. Tulsa beat Oklahoma, 23-0. Oklahoma held Texas to a seven-point victory, tied a good Missouri team, and beat Kansas State 76-0. Tulsa took Washington U., 41-0, and the Oklahoma Aggies, 34-6. On top of that, Tulsa not only busted Baylor's great line and held a fine collection of backs without a score, but beat it, 24-0."

"So I believe that every fact and record rates Tulsa along with Georgia, Georgia Tech, Michigan and others as one of the most powerful teams in the nation."

You can gather from the above that Little Bill Miller thinks Tulsa is pretty good, and knowing his record of being associated with winners, we wouldn't even think of trying to laugh off the little man with the big ideas. He has plenty on the ball, including the whole Tulsa team right now.

Dodgers May Train At West Palm Beach

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Branch Rickey disclosed today that the Brooklyn Dodgers probably would hold their spring training for 1943 at West Palm Beach, Fla.

OHIO STATE'S BATTERING BUCKS, WHO MEET MICHIGAN IN WEEK'S HEADLINER

Mighty football machines of Ohio State university and the University of Michigan collide in Ohio's stadium at day. The Western Conference title hinges on the outcome. The Bucks, beaten only by Wisconsin this season, are shown above.

A Midwestern Rebuttal

There is a rebuttal in from the Midwest that in a certain sense seems to be justified. This comes from a veteran Midwestern coach and it concerns what he calls "the national overbuilding of Boston college, Georgia and Georgia Tech."

"You have seen enough football," he writes, "to know what the quality of opposition means. It is a big point in any ranking. I know that Boston college, Georgia and Georgia Tech have fine football teams."

"But in the main, these teams have played nothing like the schedule so many Midwestern teams have had to face. It would be my guess that all three of them together haven't had to meet over three or four good teams."

"You ought to know what it means to have to meet one tough team after another, week after week, with no intermissions. It means everything."

The Main Difference

"Again taking no credit from the strength of Boston college, Georgia and Georgia Tech," the writer continues, "suppose each one had to meet such teams as Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Notre Dame and Iowa or Indiana on successive Saturdays—in place of Florida, Chattanooga, Fordham, Wake Forest, Cincinnati, Mississippi, Georgetown, Temple, Kentucky, etc."

"Michigan or Minnesota or Ohio State could pile up 300 points or more in that sort of schedule. So don't get too excited about big scores run up against outclassed teams that don't belong this season on the big time."

"For example," he adds, "Boston college has been called on, through no fault of its own, I know, to meet one strong team—North Carolina Navy Pre-Flight, Boston college won, 7 to 6."

"A fine Georgia team has had one tough game to play—against Alabama."

"Georgia Tech has had the much harder schedule, with Auburn, Notre Dame, Duke and Alabama. But outside of Alabama none of these teams belong with Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio State and others around the Midwest."

"I wouldn't say that any one of these teams would be sure to beat Boston college, Georgia or Georgia Tech. But they would be about even money in every start and, certainly, none of the latter three would have any chance at all to move through this Midwestern pack unbeaten."

"In the first place, after about three such games their teams would be badly battered and pretty well worn out. Let their lines try to keep stopping such backs as Hillenbrand, Harder, Hirsch, Fekete, Kuzma, White, Sarringhaus, Daley, etc.—or their lines facing such linemen as Wildung, Franks, Wistert, Schreiner, Pregulman and many others. It would be an entirely different story."

Quality of Opposition

This is all quite true. The quality of the opposition never has been given enough consideration in ranking college teams.

Man Power

In the way of man power there is no one to question the fact that Boston college is well in front.

Here is a line, with able reserves, that averages over 220 pounds. This wouldn't be so important if these men were slow. They are not. They are fast and shifty.

Working behind this line there is a backfield, headed by 218-pound Holovak, that also is big and fast. To get a better idea of the all-around strength of this Boston college outfit, I asked two well-known coaches who had seen them play to give me the names of their best men.

They finally wound up with seven names. They refused to split these names apart.

As there seems to be a strong chance Boston college will meet either Georgia or Georgia Tech later on—probably in the Sugar bowl—it will be possible for once to settle the argument now raging between the sovereign commonwealths of Massachusetts and Georgia.

If this game comes off it should be one of the best ever played—certainly between two of the strongest teams ever to meet in any Bowl game.

Georgia Clings To First Place In AP Grid Poll

Boston College Tightens Grip on Third behind Georgia Tech

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Georgia clung to first place in the Associated Press' poll to determine the nation's best college football team, although its share of the first-place votes slumped from seventy-six per cent a week ago to fifty-four per cent in today's tabulation.

Much of the favoritism formerly shown the Southern powerhouse switched to Boston college, but the Eagles were unable to better their third-place rating behind Georgia and Georgia Tech.

Eagles Gaining
Sixty-nine of the 126 voting experts figured the Bulldogs were the best, although eighty-five of 112 had that opinion a week ago before the men of Wally Butts buried Chattanooga, 40 to 0.

However, the 56-to-6 pasting the Bostonians applied to Fordham brought them thirty-seven first-place votes in contrast with the ten of a week ago. And Georgia Tech, which cleared one of the toughest hurdles in downing Alabama, gained points and respect, but also lost first-place votes in the general swing to the Eagles.

Bowl Bid Likely
All three of the top clubs are bargaining along unbeaten and untied, a situation that may last until the two Georgia elevens collide in Atlanta and Boston college meets its arch foe, Holy Cross.

The winner of the Southern battle and the Eagles have been labeled as prospective foes in the January 1 Sugar bowl contest.

Michigan, which lived up to early-season billing by downing Notre Dame, vaulted from sixth to fourth place while the Irish skidded from fourth to eighth.

Tulsa Bags Sixth
Three other Big Nine clubs in addition to the Wolverines gained rankings in the first ten, Ohio State grabbing fifth place, Wisconsin seventh and Minnesota tenth.

Lardner the Crusader on a Rampage; Attempts To Clean Up Feather Situation

By JOHN LARDNER

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A few years ago, when the middleweight boxing division had three or four world champions, including the champions of the two major networks, Red and Blue, your correspondent attempted to clean up the situation from the records. What thanks did I get for this clean, fighting, crusading administration? I ran third at the next elections, beaten by a Republican and a Democrat.

A man with a lesser sense of duty would have retired from public life in the face of this rebuff, and spent his time sulking and raking the leaves in his front yard, far from the ingratitude of the proletariat and the petty malice of politics.

Not me, however. I do not like to rake leaves in the first place, and now, having recovered from a slight fit of pique during which I chewed off my thumbnails and threw them to the live stock, I am back in action: Attempting to clean up the featherweight situation.

On Friday night of this week Chalky Wright and Willie Pep (nee Papaleo) are fighting for the world's featherweight championship of the Blue network at Madison Square Garden. There is another network, the Red, with a world's champion of its own, Mr. Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson. You would think Mr. Pep and Mr. Wright would have pooled their funds, bought a ticket, and asked Mr. Wilson to be their guest at the contest. But no. Mr. Wright ignores Mr. Wilson, and I suspect that Mr. Pep has not even heard of him.

Mr. Wright prefers to regard his title as exclusive. Mr. Pep, a brother of a lad from Hartford, Conn., with fifty-three consecutive sensational victories to his credit, has better things to think about than outlying world champions. He is young, a brilliant performer, and here he stands on the threshold of success. Mr. Wright is the nearest world champion to hand. He is good enough for Mr. Pep.

Therefore, I will get no thanks from Pep or Wright for digging into the records. They didn't ask me to. Nor will I get any fan mail from Mr. Wilson, who considers the Pep-Wright match to be a brawl between outlaws and two or three notches beneath contempt.

I do it simply for the sake of the public, which repudiated me at the polls by 85,000 votes.

The dope which I have dug up is very thrilling stuff, as follows: Back in the fall of 1938, the exclusive featherweight champion of the world was Joseph Archibald, of Pawtucket, R. I., recognized by both networks as the rightful heir of Dixon, Attell, Kilbane, and Armstrong. Mr. Archibald became the easier to recognize when Peter Scalzo gave him a shiner and knocked him out in two rounds in an over-the-weight bout.

Mr. Archibald then proceeded to give Mr. Scalzo the brushoff right up and down the land.

"Scalzo? Scalzo?" said Mr. Archibald, when the name was called to his attention by the Scalzo management. "I can't seem to place him. However, if he wants my autograph—"

The only place Scalzo wanted Joseph's autograph was on a contract for a return match with the title at stake, and Mr. Archibald bravely refused to comply. He was too busy fighting Mr. Harry Jeffra, of Baltimore. He lost the title to Jeffra. Then he won it back again. Then he was knocked out by Chalky Wright and retired reluctantly from the parlor.

That is the genesis of Mr. Wright's claim to the championship. It is a better one than the old middleweight title claim that used to be made by Blue network middleweight champions who traced their lineage back to Gorilla Jones, who won the title in a crap game. In fact, Mr. Wright's claim is technically sound. He beat Archibald, who was never actually beaten at Koshers weights by Mr. Scalzo.

But the fairly National Boxing Association, sponsor of the Red network, gave Scalzo the title when Archibald gave Scalzo the brushoff. Scalzo, as Red network champion, was knocked out by Richie Lemoe, who was beaten by Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson. That is why Mr. Wilson sets up separate housekeeping as a world champion.

I told you this would be fascinating stuff.

Personally, I will recognize the brilliant Mr. Pep as champion if he beats Wright. Then I will advise him to meet Mr. Wilson, at title weight, and I am sure he will take this advice if his managers happen to feel like it, and otherwise he won't. That's what it is to have influence—North American Newspaper Alliance.

Mineral County Football Title At Stake Today

Ridgeley and Keyser To End Season -- Game Moved Up Two Days

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 17.—The Mineral county scholastic football championship will be at stake here tomorrow afternoon when teams representing Ridgeley and Keyser high schools wind up the season by clashing in a Potomac Valley Conference engagement. The kickoff will be at 2 o'clock.

The contest was originally scheduled for October 16 but was postponed. It was re-scheduled for Friday of this week but according to an announcement tonight by Melvin Heiskell, Ridgeley principal, it will be staged tomorrow afternoon.

The Ridgeleyites, with a record of two victories in seven games this season, will be slightly favored over Bob Kyle's Golden Tornado outfit, which hasn't scored a point in dropping six consecutive battles this year. Although both teams are under par this season, the fact that the county title will be at stake should make for a hard and well-played game.

Coach Kyle plans one or two changes in the Keyser lineup. Charles Coffman, regular center who has been ill, will replace Morris, while one of the guard positions will be filled by Simone of Ralph Boyce. The rest of the Keyser lineup is Fox and Dorsey, ends; P. Hartman and C. Hartman, tackles; Martin, guard; Oglesbee, quarterback; Davy and Slocum, halfbacks; and Barrick, fullback.

Keyser lost 13-0 to Parsons, 34-4 to Romney and 60-0 to Moorefield in previous Potomac Valley Conference scraps and also bowed 45-4 to Allegany, 7-0 to Alumni and 24-4 to LaSalle.

Ridgeley's triumphs were scored over Berkeley Springs 18-0 and the West Virginia School for the Deaf at Romney 27-13. Losses were 14 Allegany 47-0, Fort Hill 47-0, LaSalle 41-0, Moorefield 52-7 and Romney 33-7.

The conference campaign will draw to a close Friday when the Moorefield High Yellow Jackets and the Romney Pioneers, each with three straight victories in the circuit, collide at Romney with at least a slice of the championship at stake. The Parsons High Panthers, who have completed their season, won four straight conference encounters but met Thomas twice in order to have the minimum number of loop engagements.

him to meet Mr. Wilson, at title weight, and I am sure he will take this advice if his managers happen to feel like it, and otherwise he won't. That's what it is to have influence—North American Newspaper Alliance.

Army Gives Approval to Rose Bowl Game

Football Public On West Coast Wants Georgia

Grapevine Says Bulldogs Will Get Bid If They Top Ga. Tech

By FRANK FRAWLEY

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 17 (AP)—The gates are open now, just in case Frankie Sinkwich and those Georgia Bulldogs want to play football in the Rose bowl new year's day.

Official approval of the game was given today by the Western Defense Command. Also everything else concerning it, at this early date, is strictly unofficial, but—

The football public out here wants Georgia. The grapevine says Georgia will be here provided it doesn't bog down against Georgia Tech in Athens, Nov. 28. If it does, the Rambling Wrecks from Atlanta will be equally welcome. There's the further attraction of a $100,000 plus purse as one third of the receipts.

Cougars Lead Parade
The Western team will be the champion, on a reasonable facsimile, of the Pacific Coast Conference. Right now the Washington State Cougars are leading the parade with five victories and one defeat with the UCLA Bruins and Southern California's Trojans in pursuit. The winner may not be determined until Dec. 12, when UCLA and USC meet here in Memorial coliseum.

Long before that date, however, something is going to be done about getting an opponent for the Pacific champion. Lately the Rose bowl game, richest prize of them all, hasn't been getting the best of the Eastern or Southern champions. Reason: Outstanding teams without official invitations wouldn't wait until the West coast championship was decided. They grabbed offers elsewhere before or as soon as their schedule was completed.

Four Unbeaten Eligibles
Pacific Coast Conference representatives met last Sunday in San Francisco to draft remedial measures. They didn't announce the action taken, but it is significant the meeting was called for the express purpose of seeing that the Rose bowl didn't have to be content with a second or third choice from the South or East, as it has once or twice before.

The undefeated eligibles are Georgia, Georgia Tech, Boston College and Tulane. The first two, if they haven't been sounded out, know they are wanted, and the others, New Orleans reports have it, are headed for the Sugar bowl.

Mason-Dixon Loop Program Planned

Slate Is Arranged -- Emil Reitze, Jr., of Loyola, Named President

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—Officials of the Mason-Dixon Conference have arranged a regular intercollegiate athletic program, hoping that the war won't force a change in plans.

They set dates for the championship basketball and wrestling tournaments and the annual conference track and field meet, and planned for the tennis, soccer and baseball leagues.

Details for the Mason-Dixon cross-country meet Monday at Gallaudet, with ten colleges running, were also worked out.

Two teams, Mt. St. Mary's and Towson (Md.) Teachers, have withdrawn their quintets from conference basketball this year.

The basketball tournament will be held March 4-6 at Loyola college, wrestling Feb. 26-27 at Johns Hopkins university, and the track and field meet May 7-8 at Hopkins.

Emil Reitze, Jr., of Loyola, was elected president of the conference, to succeed Western Maryland Coach Charles Havens, who is now in the armed forces. Gardner Mallonee of Hopkins and Fred Dumschott of Washington college were named vice-president and secretary-treasurer. Mallonee replaced Don Minnegan of Towson Teachers, while Dumschott remained in office.

Ten colleges were represented at the conference: Delaware, Randolph-Macon, Washington, Towson Teachers, Johns Hopkins, Western Maryland, Gallaudet, Loyola, Catholic university and Bridgewater.

Washington and Lee Polishes Up Defense For Maryland Game

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 17 (AP)—Coach Jerry Holstein drilled the entire Washington and Lee squad on defense today against the University of Maryland's "T" plays in one of the longest practice sessions of the year. The Generals also drilled on blocking and tackling.

Nomination for a swell coaching job—Tom Davies of Western Reserve university, Cleveland, Davies, former Pitt All-American who is being linked with the Pitt coaching berth now, has been forced to coach the team by himself. His assistants are gone into the services. Despite the extra work—Davies has to do his own scouting, too—he has come up with a team which has won five games against only two losses, one of those to Syracuse.

Dickinson College Solves Transportation Problem for Cagers

CARLISLE, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Dickinson college has solved the transportation problem entailed in drawing up a basketball schedule by arranging to play ten of its fourteen games at home or with colleges near Carlisle.

Red Devil opponents include three Maryland quintets, Navy at Annapolis Jan. 9, Western Maryland, here Feb. 13 and Aberdeen Proving Grounds here Feb. 26.

Coach "Mac" MacAndrews will lead his charges into their first contest of the season January 6, when they will entertain Elizabethtown. This marks his thirty-second year as mentor of Dickinson's basketball team.

New Orleans Race Special Called Off

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Fair Grounds Special, $20,000 classic scheduled here December 12, when Alsab was expected to meet Whirlaway, has been called off because of inability of Alsab, recently injured, to be here then.

Mutuel Handle At Bowie Is Off Fifty Per Cent

Track Officials Now Know How Losing Bettors Feel

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 17 (AP)—Losing bettors at Bowie race track these days have at least one consolation: They know the track itself is taking a worse financial beating than all but the unluckiest of them.

Attendance — and consequently income — has fallen off so sharply during the first five days of a fifteen-day meeting that only some unsighted miracle can keep this major track from winding up in the red.

The meeting was originally scheduled to run sixteen days, through Nov. 30, but today the track announced it would drop the final day's program. The office of General Manager Joseph A. Farrell said the management fully intended to finish out the fifteen days despite an impending deficit.

Average is $224,468 Daily

The average daily mutuel handle for an eight-race card during the first four days, including a Saturday, was $224,468, a figure which would have induced wholesale apoplexy in the front office a year ago.

Last fall Bowie, operated by the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, surpassed Pimlico to lead all Maryland tracks in the daily handle, with an average of $478,475.

During the nine-day spring meeting this year, the average was $450,960, or more than double the average to date of the current meeting.

This "Track in the Pines," which traditionally opens and closes the Eastern racing season, is the victim of gasoline and tire rationing and the ban on special trains. Situated about twenty miles from both Washington and Baltimore, it is three miles from the nearest railway station, and few fans are hardy enough to make that trek. Formerly, special trains were run to the grandstand.

Attendance Way Off

Even the jockeys have had trouble finding transportation, resulting in last-minute switches of riders.

Estimated attendance for the entire five days through today was approximately 18,000, not much more than that on each of several big Saturdays last fall.

Officials hopefully anticipated that next week with its two big stakes—on on Thanksgiving day and one on the following Saturday—would bring enough fans who had saved up their gasoline coupons and their $2 bills to decrease the deficit somewhat.

FRISCH WILL REMAIN AS PIRATE MANAGER

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Nov. 17 (AP)—Frankie Frisch will manage the Pittsburgh Pirates next year. William E. Benswanger, president of the club, said today.

The Pirates will do their spring training again in California and Benswanger indicated they probably would start out with a week in El Centro and complete the training in San Bernardino.

Cubs Buy Warren, Catcher, from Phils

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs announced today they had acquired Ben Warren, twenty-nine-year-old catcher, from the Philadelphia Phils on waivers.

WARREN—TDP—Touchdown by passing. XP—Extra points. FG—Field goals.

Tulane's Football Attendance Drops

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17 (AP)—Tulane's football team played before 141,107 paid customers this year, an average of 23,518 for each of six home stands. The average last year for the same number of games was 44,337. The reduced attendance was blamed on the war and its problems.

McLean Takes Second In Pro Loop Scoring

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Chicago Bears' Ray McLean jumped into second place ahead of Team-mates Gary Fiammetti and Frank Maznicki today in the National Football League scoring records.

McLean scored two touchdowns against Green Bay last week to push his output for the season to forty-two. The Packers' Don Hutson increased his production to 110 points in his record-breaking walk-away for the scoring championship.

Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities."

DO IT WITH BRAINS
OPIE, A GREAT artist in his day, was once asked by a student painter: "With what do you mix your colors?" His answer was "With brains, sir." That is a good idea for bridge, too, in the use of perfectly sound standard plays, such as splitting honors. Sometimes a brief examination of the dummy will show you that splitting your honors will simplify a situation for the declarer and make it certain he takes an extra trick in the suit, whereas ducking forces upon him a guess he is likely to make wrongly.

West	North	East	South
1 4	Pass	1 4	Pass

Various things happened on this deal in a nine-table duplicate, most East-West pairs getting set in 2-No Trumps or 3-No Trumps. At two tables, however, East's bid of 2-Hearts was treated as a sign-off and left. One declarer made the contract, with a little help from South, and the other was beaten a trick.

At both of the 2-Hearts tables, the play began in similar vein, the club K drawing the 3 from North and causing a shift to the diamond 5, the Q forcing the K. Both Easts then led the heart 2 toward the Q, the K winning and the diamond J forcing the A. The heart Q was scored, the club Q led to the A and the diamond 10 returned for a ruff by the heart 4. The heart A won at both tables, and then came the difference, when East led the spade 8.

One South split his honors, playing the spade 10, and the Q forced the A. That was the only spade led by that declarer, as on the next spade round, after winning the returned club with the J, he finessed the spade 9. The K, now top, forced North to ruff with his heart 10. East getting the last trick with the heart 8.

The other South saw that covering that spade 8 with the 10 would almost surely tip off East to finesse on the next round, so he played low on it. The declarer then went up with the Q from dummy to force the A. After East won the club return with the J and led the spade 7, South now properly split his honors, the 10 forcing the K. When the spade 9 was returned, North figured his partner for the J, so discarded his last club instead of ruffing. South won the trick, sure enough, and his diamond return was ruffed then by North's heart 10. East being obliged to under-ruff with the 8 and thus losing the final trick and his contract as well.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. Frances Boone Hunter who died five years ago, Nov. 18, 1937.

When God took you home mother dear, we did not know your time was near. You linger in our hearts today, as on the day you went away. Chained God wanted you on high to rest. For on this earth you did your best. Although you're gone from us to stay, we will meet you on that blessed day.

By WANITA HUNTER
Sadly missed by her father, her mother, and by her children.

Five More Experts Will Participate in Panel Discussion

Labor and Material Shortages Will Be Studied Here Thursday

Five additional government officials have expressed their intentions of participating in a panel discussion of labor and material shortages to be held at the Shrine Country Club at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, Harold W. Smith, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, sponsor of the program, announced yesterday.

Already scheduled to participate in the discussion are R. Floyd Cromwell, supervisor of education and occupational information for the department of Commerce, who will be moderator; Kenneth D. Duty, executive assistant to the director of the War Manpower Commission, who will handle labor problems; Roland S. Vail, chief of the consumers branch, Office of Civilian Supply of the War Production Board, who will discuss stock shortages; and T. M. Chandler, priorities district manager for Maryland, who will discuss priorities problems.

Reservations are requested. Yesterday, Smith said he received requests from government officials in Richmond, Va., and Baltimore for reservations for the dinner and added that they are expected to take part in the discussion.

Requesting reservations were C. R. Mundee, Richmond, regional Department of Commerce, a part of whose territory is Western Maryland; Walter Sondheim, state director of the United States Employment Service; Irving Ponsky, field supervisor, Frank Mazzullo, and B. R. Ahmen, occupational analysts, all of Baltimore.

Unions To Be Represented. Representatives from the CIO, A.F.O.F. and the railroad brotherhoods also are expected to attend and take part in the discussion. Requests for reservations have been received from many points outside of Cumberland as well as from the city and county, Smith said, adding that all who attend will have an opportunity to ask questions and present individual problems to the government experts.

The meeting is open to persons other than members of the chamber of commerce and Smith said it is advisable for any one who wishes to attend to make application for tickets at the chamber of commerce office, Liberty Trust building, not later than 4 p. m. today.

Social Security Beneficiaries May Do Farm Work

Act Covering Benefit Payments Does Not Apply to Agricultural Labor

H. M. Millhouser, manager of the Cumberland office of the Social Security Board, said yesterday that persons who are receiving old-age and survivors insurance benefits may continue to receive such benefits and at the same time earn maximum wages in agriculture work. Although the Social Security act prohibits the payment of benefits to anyone who receives wages of $15 or more per month in a job that is covered by the act, Millhouser said, this ruling does not apply to farm labor because agricultural work is not covered by the act.

When beneficiaries under the old-age and survivors insurance system received their November checks, a leaflet was inclosed pointing out the following facts:

"Farm labor is urgently needed. You can help your government win the war if you will accept farm work. The extra money you earn will not stop your monthly old-age and survivors insurance payments because agricultural work is not covered by the Social Security Act."

"Boys and girls who are sixteen or seventeen years old who wish to extend their summer vacations in order to work on a farm may continue to receive their monthly insurance benefits while so working. However, they must notify the social security board office of the date they expect to return to school."

"Your local United States Employment Service will give you full information about available jobs. If you can give a helping hand, visit your local employment office now."

Bowman's Addition Scrap Drive Will Be Continued

A scrap metal drive which was opened last Friday by the Bowman's Addition Fire Company will be continued through this week, members of the committee announced today. Scrap will be collected from all residents of Bedford and Valley roads. Proceeds from the collection will be used to erect a fire house for the company.

GUEST SPEAKER — John C. Meikle of Washington, D. C., secretary of the Mooseheart board of governors, will be the guest speaker at the banquet of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, L.O.O.M., Sunday, November 29, at 6 p. m. in the Moose home, Beall street. Prior to the banquet a class of new members will be inducted.

John C. Meikle Will Speak at Moose Banquet

Mooseheart Official Coming Here for Induction November 29

John C. Meikle, of Washington, secretary of the board of governors of Mooseheart, will be the guest speaker November 29, at a banquet of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose at the Moose home, Beall street.

Preceding the banquet a class of new members will be inducted into the organization. The banquet will be held at 6 p. m. Members of the more than 300,000 members of the Moose throughout the world, few are better known than John C. Meikle. In addition to being an officer and member of the board of governors of Mooseheart, he is a graduate of the same amazing child city of Mooseheart, Ill., which he now serves as an executive.

He was born in Mossend, Scotland, August 27, 1899, but came to this country with his parents who settled in Dawson, New Mexico. While he attended grammar school there, fate willed that he be left an orphan. But Mooseheart had been recently established and his father was a Moose. Consequently, Meikle went to Mooseheart as one of its first students.

Served in World War I. While he was a student at the child city, the world was enveloped in war and with the entry of the United States into the conflict, Meikle enlisted at once, to serve for more than two years. In the fall of 1919 he returned to Mooseheart to finish his studies there and was graduated in the high school class of 1920. At once he entered Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh, Pa., and was graduated in the class of 1924.

All this while Senator James J. Davis, Director General of the Moose Order, had been watching the young man and had become greatly interested in his progress. As soon as Meikle completed his education at Carnegie, Davis, then United States Secretary of Labor, took him to Washington as his private secretary and for eight years Meikle served in this important position.

Established Memorial. Mooseheart has an unwritten tradition that if any graduate is able later in life to return to the Moose the amount of the expense incurred while he is a Mooseheart student, he will make restitution. The tradition is in no wise mandatory, but Meikle was the first to accept the tradition and the funds he turned over to the Moose caused the foundation of the students' bank there as a memorial to him.

Meikle was appointed a member of the Board of Mooseheart governors in 1931 and secretary of the board two years later. He is a member of the Moose Fellowship and Pilgrim Degrees, a member of the Masons and of the American Legion.

War Memorial Group Begins Plans for Permanent Records

Members of the War Memorial Committee for Allegany County have decided to purchase filing cabinets and set up records of all men and women who enter the nation's service from this county.

Commercial classes of local schools will be asked to help compile the records and type the filing cards. The committee believes once the file is started, it will be possible, by the end of the war, to have in Cumberland a complete record of service of all persons inducted or enlisted into any branch of the military. It is the plan of the memorial committee to use the record for establishment of a permanent county war memorial here.

Firemen Answer Two Fire Alarms

Firemen from East Side fire station were called to extinguish a grass fire on Wills mountain at 3:40 p. m. yesterday.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning South Cumberland firemen were called to the home of William Liken, 950 Gay street, when a davenport caught fire.

Travel to Vacation Residences Is Out

OPA Will Allow Special Ration for Bona Fide Change of Residence

Motoring between summer and winter vacation homes is out for the duration of mileage rationing, the Office of Price Administration has announced, according to Miles G. Thompson, office manager of War Price and Rationing Board No. 1-1.

Regulations covering the plan that goes into nationwide effect on December 1, however, will provide special rationing for motorists caught away from their permanent homes on the day the plan becomes effective. Such special rations will provide enough gas to get the car home.

If both the place of residence and the car are in the Eastern area on December 1, a special ration may be obtained if the car has been continuously away from the place of residence since August 22, Thompson explained. This is the date that the last extension of gasoline rationing in the Eastern area became effective.

Gasoline allowances will also be made to permit an owner to move his car in the event of a bona fide change of residence.

These provisions, Thompson emphasized, will not allow gasoline rations for motor travel from summer home to winter residences used primarily for vacation purposes.

Women Preachers Discussed by Evangelist

Miss Betty Weakland Has Busy Day; Speaks at Three Meetings

Despite a busy day during which she addressed the students and faculty in Allegany high school and was guest speaker for the Rotary club, Miss Betty Weakland was in her usual trim last evening as she directed the song service, sang a solo and preached the sermon in First Baptist church.

As she began her message, the young preacher startled the large congregation by declaring, "Some people say they do not like to hear women preachers, well, I don't like to hear men preach either! But," she added, "I do like to hear the Holy Spirit preach through an individual. The important thing is to be filled with the Spirit."

"Most people refer to the fourteenth chapter of First Corinthians, fifty-fourth verse, when declaring it to be unscriptural for women to preach," Miss Weakland continued. "Let your women keep silence in the churches, for it is not permitted unto them to speak. . . as saith the law." To what law does Paul refer? He does not refer to the Old Testament law for we read of Miriam, Huldah, Deborah and others speaking and exhorting in the assembly. In the New Testament a woman had the privilege of preaching the glad tidings of the Lord's resurrection—the first time. Paul was often a guest in the home of Philip who had four daughters who were evangelists. Surely he would not have condoned that if he thought it was unscriptural for women to preach."

Miss Weakland pointed out that the only law Paul could refer to was the law in the city of Corinth, or possibly the Talmud which is not in the Bible, which says "it is a shame for a woman to lift her voice in the assembly in a group of men."

"Let us remember," continued the youthful preacher, "that Paul is stating the question first and then giving the answer to the question the Corinthians have submitted to him just as modern letter writers do. In the thirty-sixth verse we find his answer, 'What? Came the word of God out from you? Or came it unto you only?' This stands out like an electric sign and is a strange ending to a command for women not to preach. Paul tells the Corinthians not to hinder the woman from preaching in the Old Testament the word prophesy means to foretell but in the New Testament it means to tell forth."

Commenting upon dancing, rhythm, music and drama, Miss Weakland declared that they originally belonged to the church. "Just as Samson went to sleep with his head in the lap of Delilah and lost his power through his shorn head, so the church has gone to sleep with her head in the lap of the world. Even our greatest ministers must admit that the church has lost its power. The Holy Spirit wants a mouthpiece and it does not make any difference who the person is, just that the individual is yielded and flexible in His will." (Continued on Page 10, Col. 8.)

War Appeals Campaign Headquarters Is Opened In B'er Chayim Temple

Headquarters for Allegany county's War Appeals Campaign were opened yesterday in the vestry room of B'er Chayim temple, Union street, with Mrs. William M. Somerville in charge. The drive will continue from Dec. 3 to Dec. 13. The office will be open from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p. m. daily.

150 Students Take Examination after Bombing Course

Two-day School on Aerial Attack Termed Best Held in State

Regarded as one of the most successful schools for bomb reconnaissance agents conducted in the state, the two-day course held in the city hall auditorium Monday and Tuesday, closed yesterday afternoon with 150 students completing a written quiz.

The school was conducted by Lt. Col. M. H. Resni Coff of the United States Army Ordnance Department, who is assigned to the Third Service Command as an instructor for civilian defense and other civil units.

Col. Resni Coff said last night the quiz papers of students will be graded by Vincent P. Ingram, director of Allegany county civilian defense.

Dr. Robert W. Work, commander of Cumberland Citizens Defense Corps stated "the protection of our vital war efforts and public utilities in this area, so as to permit continuation of service under possible enemy air attack, is of paramount importance. The training of bomb reconnaissance agents for just such an emergency, therefore, should greatly minimize destruction of life and property, lessen interference with our war effort as well as avoid chaotic conditions in the event of an attack from the air."

300 Attend Film Showing. More than 300 business, professional and industrial leaders of this area attended the showing of the authentic British motion picture, "Bomb Disposal and How the Problem is Handled in England," yesterday afternoon. Because of the secret nature of much of this information, strict confidence was imposed upon the audience. A part of the film was used in the two-day course of instruction.

Throughout the lectures and demonstrations by Lt. Col. Resni Coff, he attempted to show the effects of aerial bombing, the action of explosives, characteristics of enemy bombs, various phases of bomb detection, evacuation of personnel from the danger areas, precautionary measures to protect vital property and equipment, traffic restrictions which must be imposed and methods of reporting unexploded bombs and delayed action bombs, during and after an aerial attack.

Goes To Hagerstown. Major General Milton A. Reckord, commanding general of the Third Service Command, last night directed Col. Resni Coff to proceed to Hagerstown to conduct the course there Thursday and Friday. Col. Resni Coff will then go to Annapolis, after which he expects to conduct several schools on the Eastern Shore. He has already completed a series of courses of instruction throughout Pennsylvania and Virginia cities where there are war industries.

7,000 Earn First Aid Certificates, Perry Announces

160 Classes Held in Allegany County since Jan. 1, Chairman Reports

Seven thousand persons have earned first aid certificates in Allegany county since January 1, Karl G. Perry, chairman of the first aid committee of Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross, told instructors and members of his committee at a meeting last evening in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church.

Perry said that his report showed that 4,232 persons earned Red Cross junior, standard and advance first aid certificates while 3,000 civilian defense workers received certificates for ten-hour courses.

One hundred and sixty classes, not including those for civilian defense units, were held and seventy-one different instructors did the teaching.

Those attending the meeting included the first aid committee, comprising Perry, Daniel L. D'Amico, Miss Margaret Coulehan, John J. Long and Lee Sileox. Twenty-three instructors were among the twenty-six persons in attendance.

Plans were formulated for the holding of classes during the winter months.

Women of the canteen service, of which Mrs. Nat Guggenheimer is chairman, served coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches.

152 Wardens in Training. One hundred and fifty-two candidates are now in training for air raid wardens. Others include ninety-seven in emergency food and housing; fifty-four, auxiliary firemen; thirty-eight, auxiliary police; thirty-four messengers; thirty-two, staff and twenty-five, decontamination.

The report also shows that there are sixty members in the Civil Air Patrol, 950 in the aircraft warning service, forty-seven in the forest fire fighters service and 1,057 persons registered for any type of volunteer service to date.

Plans were completed December 26, 1941 for the local control center, public warning system and blackout controls and installations were completed March 11, 1942.

Court Completes Opinion in Case Of Hansel-Collins

Ruling Issued That Mill Run Must Not Be Used for Sewage Disposal

In an opinion of Associate Judge William A. Huster, in circuit court yesterday, Charles S. Hansel of near Rawlings must refrain from using Mill Run for the disposal of sewage from several of his dwellings in that section.

Action was brought against Hansel and his wife Ella M. Hansell by William C. Collins and Ada B. Collins, several weeks ago, in a bill of complaint seeking an injunction. Hansel says some of the houses in question were constructed twenty years ago, and that they have always used Mill Run for sewage disposal. He also contended that septic tanks and settling beds had been installed at most of the dwellings, and that water from kitchen sinks flowed into Mill Run. The other sewer outlets were alleged to be overflows from the septic tanks or settling beds.

However, Dr. Theodore R. Shrop, city and county health officer, conducted an investigation and reported that six pipes opened into Mill Run on the Hansel side and that conditions were not the best.

Collins, in his bill of complaint also said that some of the sewer lines to the run crossed his property.

The court indicated, in its opinion, that Hansel must not use the stream for sewage disposal and only one line, that from dwelling number two which is connected to the kitchen sink may remain. The others must be removed. He is also enjoined from trespassing on Collins' property with his sewer lines.

Collins was represented in court by Capper and Jenkins, attorneys, while Thomas Lohr Richards represented Hansel.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 17 (AP)—Maryland's Court of Appeals reconvened today after a recess that began shortly before the general election, and less than a dozen cases on the October docket remained to be heard.

The appeal of Vernon Elwood Gray, 36-year-old Corriganville man sentenced by the Allegany County Circuit Court last July to three years in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of manslaughter, was continued until the January term on request of attorneys for both appellant and appellee.

Gray was convicted by a grand jury in connection with the slaying of his neighbor, Norman E. Emerick, outside their Corriganville homes June 12.

The Court was asked to reverse a judgment of the Baltimore Criminal Court which sentenced James Ford, Baltimore negro, to death by hanging in July on a rape charge. Judges W. Conwell Smith and Edwin T. Dickerson had imposed the sentence.

Gray shot and killed his next-door neighbor, Norman Emerick, during a dispute near their homes. He pleaded self-defense. His attorneys said Gray was suffering from a rare ailment that might prove fatal at any time.

SPEAKS HERE TODAY—Mrs. Edmund Hoffman, Territorial Home League secretary of the Salvation Army, will speak at a women's Home League conference in the army citadel, North Mechanic street, today.

Army Secretary Will Speak Here

Mrs. Edmund Hoffman To Attend Women's Home League Conference

Mrs. Edmund Hoffman, Atlanta, Ga., Territorial Home League secretary of the Salvation Army for the fifteen southern states and the District of Columbia, will be in Cumberland today as guest speaker at the annual rally for home league members of this area, including Hagerstown, Martinsburg, W. Va., Winchester, Va., and North and South Cumberland citadels.

The afternoon session of the rally will begin at 2:30 p. m. with the dinner rally scheduled for 5 p. m. The last meeting of the day will be at 7 o'clock and will be open to the public. The first two sessions are for delegates only. The theme of the meetings will be "Adjustments and Post-War Needs in the Family."

The Home league in the South, under the direction of Mrs. Hoffman, has 45,000 members. For the past two years the leagues have been sewing and knitting for men in the armed forces and for refugees.

Mrs. Hoffman, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Dodd, will conduct rallies similar to the one here in Morgantown, W. Va., Wheeling, W. Va., and Baltimore for the leagues in those areas.

Postmaster Requests Lightweight Stationery For Air Mail Use

A request was made yesterday by Postmaster James C. Shriver for the public to use lightweight envelopes and stationery for air mail.

Facilities for transporting air mail have been curtailed, Shriver explained, and the volume of it is constantly increasing, posing a transportation problem since plane space is largely used now for materials other than mail.

By using lightweight stationery and envelopes, Shriver continued, approximately twice the number of air mail letters to the pound can be shipped as when ordinary stationery is used.

County School Teachers Name Three Trustees To Administer Relief Fund

The school teachers of Allegany county Monday elected the following trustees to administer the relief fund maintained by their contributions.

Orbie B. Boughton, Fort Hill high school, president; Miss Lulu M. Blonsky, Pennsylvania avenue school, secretary-treasurer; William G. Patkin, Luke school, associate.

Ex-officio trustees are Edgar A. Dashiell, president of the board of education, and Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Five Deeds Show Sales of $10,225

Three Mortgages and One Bill of Sale Also Filed for Record

Five deeds were filed for record in the office of the clerk of court here yesterday, showing property sales involving approximately $10,225.

William A. Gunter, assignee, conveyed to Vang Construction company for $1,325, lots 642, 643, 644, 645 and 646 of the Triple Lakes Development Company, one mile west of Cresaptown, near McMullen highway.

The Liberty Trust company transferred to Holzshu Realty Company, property at the corner of Virginia avenue and Miller alley for about $7,900.

Clyde S. Slider and Catherine E. Slider purchased from the Johnson Realty Company, parts of lots Nos. 12, 13 and 14 in block 29, Edgewale avenue, Johnson Heights for $600 and lots 13 and 14 in block No. 1, Fort Hill addition, along Windsor avenue for $100.

Clyde S. Slider and Catherine E. Slider sold to Thomas A. Warnick and Gladys Warnick, lot No. 13, block 29 on Edgewale avenue for $300.

Three mortgages, one conditional sales contract and one bill of sale were also filed for record.

Draft Boards Begin Mailing Questionnaires To 18 and 19 Year Olds

Allegany county selective service boards yesterday began mailing questionnaires to eighteen and nineteen year old draft registrants.

Each of the four boards in the county, three in Cumberland and one in Frostburg, were notified by mail yesterday morning to begin sending out the questionnaires to registrants in that age group and the task is expected to be completed today.

At the present time, however, there are no additional instructions pertaining to calling registrants of that age group to service although the local boards are awaiting further orders from Baltimore selective service headquarters.

Shotgun Shells Are No Longer Available Here

And There'll Be No More for Sale for the Duration, Stores Report

"Praise the Lord and Conserve the Ammunition" is the new theme song of local sportsmen, especially those who have stored away enough of it to finish out the 1942 upland game season which closes Monday, November 30.

A survey yesterday disclosed that all local stores have completely sold out their supply of shotgun shells and that's not the worst of it as no more will be available for the duration of the war.

Several months ago publicity to the effect that such a shortage "could happen here" was released and those who failed to take the tip are now out of luck.

Sales Triple Last Year. Robert M. Llewellyn, of the Peoples Hardware Company, said that the rush for shotgun shells was started during the early squirrel season and continued until he sold out of all his stock.

"The demand for ammunition has been so great that our sales tripled those of last year," Llewellyn declared.

"Various shotgun shell manufacturers throughout the country quit making ammunition for the hunters July 1. Now they're making ammunition for the government to win the war."

Llewellyn said a few rifle shells and pumpkin balls, used in deer hunting are all that remain of his store's stock of ammunition.

George Zimmerman, of the Wilson Hardware Company, said "So Sorry," when asked if he had any shotgun shells on hand. Orion O. Wilson, of the Liberty Hardware Company, declared, "We sold our last box of shells several weeks ago," and Lou's and Joe's store managers told the same story.

They all agreed that there's none in town and there won't be any more for the duration.

Corporal Barrett Carries His Trade Along to England

Local Soldier Spends Spare Time Laying Bricks for Allies

Corp. Frank H. Barrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Barrett, 334 Aviret avenue, who was in the brick-laying contracting business with his father prior to enlisting in the army in April 1941, has carried his trade to England.

According to a dispatch from Lee McCordell, Baltimore Sun correspondent, Barrett attended church services at a little church in England, one Sunday morning. He noticed that an ante-structure to the church, intended for canteen purposes was only partially completed. McCordell says in his dispatch that Barrett rounded up five other bricklayers among the American troops, went to work with mortar and trowel and completed the job in about two hours. The Yankee bricklayers refused to accept pay from the church for their work.

On another occasion, Barrett was strolling about Westminster when he noticed bricklayers on a scaffold building a shield for a stained glass window in the House of Parliament. After engaging the bricklayers in conversation, they invited him to "take a turn." Corp. Barrett doffed his coat, climbed upon the scaffold and went to work. He quickly laid two courses of bricks, but dropped his trowel in disgust when told London bricklayers work for two shillings, a little over forty cents an hour.

Permit Is Issued

A permit for the construction of a one-story garage of tile and brick with stone foundation and metal roof in the rear of 302 Arch street was issued yesterday by the city engineer to H. J. Heckler. The cost is estimated at $100.

225 New Members Join "Y"; WAACS Lead in Campaign

Mrs. E. H. Vandegrift Unit Shows Way; Drive To Close Nov. 24

Two hundred and twenty-five new members have joined the Century Y.M.C.A. since the membership campaign was inaugurated Thursday, November 12, according to reports made by workers at a district meeting last evening.

WAACS Lead in Race. The WAACS, commanded by Mrs. Edgar H. Vandegrift, are showing the way in the six-division race to secure new members with a total of 14,000 points.

Runner-up honors go to the Navy, commanded by Edmund S. Burns, with 12,500 points.

The Coast Guard, commanded by Miss Lucille Houck, is third with 2,700 points; General Kenneth G. Ford's Army is fourth with 2,300 points; Col. John L. Towler's Marines, fifth, 1,650 points, and Maj. Dorothy Sturdivant's Air Corps division sixth with 825 points.

Points are based on the amount of money and memberships secured. The purpose of the campaign is to increase the Y.M.C.A. membership to 1,000 by Tuesday, November 24.

Commander-in-Chief Roy W. Evers announced that the next reported meeting will be held November 24.

60 Workers Attend. Sixty workers attended last evening's meeting. John J. Robinson, executive of the Y.M.C.A., said greetings from Richmond, Va., and the Y.M.C.A. program now includes additional classes for women in the morning and evening. The new evening classes include business and professional women, school teachers and three co-ed swimming classes.

Rotarians Urged To Take Part in Religious Work

Evangelist Says Spiritual Wall Is Nation's Greatest Defense

As representative civic leaders, Rotarians were urged yesterday by Miss Betty Weakland, evangelist, to do all they can to strengthen the nation's greatest defense wall.

That wall, Miss Weakland declared, addressing club members at their weekly luncheon at the Century Y.M.C.A., is the spiritual wall, which is impregnable. "If God be for us, who can be against us?" she asked, answering that "if we promise to serve Him, who is the mightiest, battle, will be our buckler and shield."

Various Walls Erected. Organized society has erected various walls of defense for the protection of the individual, Miss Weakland pointed out, citing the story of Dutch home defenders attacked by the Spaniards,
